REPORTS TELL OF UPRISING AND VIOLENCE IN RUSSIA AS TWO SIDES FIGHT FOR LEAD

Fleet Said to Have Joined Zinovieff Against Rykoff and to Have Launched Attack On Black Sea Ports; Soviet Government Denies These and Other Reports.

Bucharest, Aug. 9.—Reports of an alleged insurrection in Russia continue to reach newspapers here.

The latest of these are to the effect that the Soviet fleet went over to the side of Gregory Zinovieff and is attacking the southern littoral and that Zinovieff has been wounded and that Leon Trotsky is a fugitive.

It is further rumored the Soviet has ordered a general mobilization.

Although there are neither details nor corroboration of these reports from authoritative sources, their persistence has led to the belief in some quarters here that there is a serious situation in Russia.

SOVIET DENIAL

London, Aug. 9.—The Tass Agency, official news disseminator of the Russian Soviet Government, in a message to the Associated Press from Moscow today said: "Reports of Mr. Stalin's assassination, military revolts, mobilizations and disturbances on the Black Sea are absolute nonsense. Everybody laughs at them."

STALIN ALIVE

Moscow, Aug. 9.—Official denial was made today of reports published abroad that M. Stalin, general secretary of the Communist Party, had been assassinated.

Dispatches said Trotsky was leading a new revolutionary movement with the object of a drastic overhaul.

FIVE WORKMEN LOST LIVES WHEN BRITISH SUBMARINE H-29 SANK

London, Aug. 9.—The British submarine H-29 sank today in the Devonport Basin while undergoing repairs.

It is feared five lives were lost, according to an announcement by the Admiralty.

Advices from Devonport state the H-29 sank in twenty-five feet of water with her hatch open. She was seen to tilt suddenly from some undetermined reason, although an explosion of some sort apparently occurred in the neighborhood of the conning tower.

Six men on deck jumped clear of the submarine and were rescued.

Practically all on board were dockyard workers.

KITCHENER GRAVE STORY IS DENIED

No Foundation For Report From Norwegian Shore, Says British Government

London, Aug. 9.—(Canadian Press Cable)—In connection with the report that the body of Field Marshal Lord Kitchener, who was believed to have been drowned when the British cruiser Hampshire sank off the Orkney Islands in 1916, had been found in an Egersund, Norway, cemetery, Viscount Broome, son of the present Lord Kitchener, stated today there was no truth in the story so far as he was aware.

OFFICIAL DENIAL

London, Aug. 9.—Official denial of the reported finding of Lord Kitchener's body on the shore of Scandinavia and its interment there is given in a report on the loss of the British cruiser Hampshire off the Orkneys in 1916 issued here today.

The report goes lengthily into the details of the sinking of the Hampshire, and, as has been officially done many times before, denies the cruiser was lost through treachery. It has been conclusively proved, the paper says, that the vessel went down after striking one or more German mines.

STORIES IMAGINARY

The stories that Lord Kitchener "got away from the ship and that he reached shore are purely imaginary," it continues.

Regarding the rumor that Kitchener's body was found on the Scandinavian shore, it says:

"None of the Hampshire's dead has ever been identified and buried on these shores, and there are good reasons for regarding it as most improbable the sea would have carried them there."

WIDE TRAINING

Mr. Hosie's experience and training as a librarian are extremely wide. After his education in Britain he took up library work early in life, and has been engaged in it ever since. He entered the Provincial Library here under the late E. O. (Continued on page 1)

EARTH SHOCKS WERE RECORDED AT WASHINGTON

Washington, Aug. 9.—A severe earthquake which centred about 4,500 miles in a northwesterly direction from Washington, was recorded during the night on the Georgetown University seismograph. The shocks began at 10.50 p.m. and ended at 1.30 a.m. The maximum intensity was between 11.21 and 11.24 p.m.

ELEPHANTS ROAMING IN SOUTHERN B.C.

Five Animals Broke Away From Circus at Cranbrook; Have Traveled Far

Creston, B.C., Aug. 9.—Although accustomed to seeing all varieties of big game of British Columbia as he speeds along the Crow's Nest line of the Canadian Pacific Railway, Engineer Frank Sheridan was considerably surprised when he was handed the following instructions at Kootenay Landing:

"Keep strict watch for elephants on right-of-way and if located report their whereabouts on arrival at first telegraph station."

The five elephants at large referred to escaped when they stampeded on Friday in Cranbrook where the Sells-Floto circus was showing.

ATTEMPT IS MADE ON LIFE OF PANGALOS, DICTATOR OF GREECE

Athens, Aug. 9.—An attempt to assassinate Premier Theodoros Pangalos as he was lunching Saturday in a hotel in Spetsa was foiled by other guests, it was learned today.

A merchant of Xilokastro named Antonopolis was seized as he flashed a pistol before the Premier and before he could fire it.

General Pangalos was undisturbed by the attempt and continued his meal.

Perfect order prevailed throughout the country.

NOTED BANKER SEES LARGER FUTURE AHEAD

Sir Frederick Williams-Taylor Predicts Canada's Virility Will Settle Problems

Victoria Has Everything For Ideal Community, He Says

Sir Frederick Williams-Taylor, general manager of the Bank of Montreal, arrived in Victoria today on one of his periodical tours of the western branches of the bank and inspection of western business conditions generally.

He was the guest of E. W. McMullen, manager of the bank here, at a luncheon at the Union Club today. Sir Frederick said: "I have been very much impressed by the virility of this country. It is a great pleasure to meet again my Victoria friends and the many friends who have been attracted to Victoria from other parts of the Dominion by the beauty of its surroundings and its kindly climate. You seem to have everything that goes to the making of an ideal community, and the increasing popularity of this city with tourists shows how many more there are who feel as I do."

CHARMED ANEW

"I can imagine no more delightful finish to a trip across Canada than a stay in this beautiful city of Victoria," Sir Frederick said. "I have been here many times, of course, and know it well, but each time I come I am impressed anew by its charm. It is also a great pleasure to meet again my Victoria friends and the many friends who have been attracted to Victoria from other parts of the Dominion by the beauty of its surroundings and its kindly climate. You seem to have everything that goes to the making of an ideal community, and the increasing popularity of this city with tourists shows how many more there are who feel as I do."

WEST MORE HOPEFUL

"On my trip across the continent I have been conscious of a more hopeful feeling in all the cities I have visited. The post-war depression was severely felt but the period of readjustment is passing and Canada is on the way to a larger future."

"But besides our future, we have a present that requires some attention. We still have to face a very large national debt which must some day be paid by ourselves and our successors, and the national question arises. How are we going to do it? The answer is plain to any observing person who makes the journey."

MISSING GIRLS FOUND AT HOTEL

Vancouver, Aug. 9.—Alexander and Margaret Whitehead, aged fourteen and sixteen, respectively, missing since Friday last when they left their home here with tickets for the Vancouver exhibition, went to White Rock instead without informing their parents.

They were found there at a hotel, whose manager, Percy Elsey, knowing their parents, did not suspect they were there without their parents' knowledge. Until he read a newspaper story to that effect.

RAINS CHECK FOREST FIRES

Fernie, B.C., Aug. 9.—Heavy rains have improved the forest fire situation around Fernie.

GENERAL PANGALOS

KING TO SPEAK IN WILLOWS ARENA AT BIG MEETING HERE

Large Crowds Expected to Hear Former Premier as He Completes Canadian Tour

Dr. King to Accompany Leader at Local Rally; Liberals Prepare For Convention

Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, leader of the Liberal party in Canada and former Premier, will address a mass meeting in the Willows Arena here Thursday night, it was announced today. The skating rink building, transformed for the occasion into a huge auditorium, was chosen by the Victoria Liberal Association as the scene of Mr. King's meeting because of the large crowds expected to attend. It is anticipated several thousands will hear the Liberal Leader as he completes his ocean-to-ocean tour here.

For the convenience of those attending special street car service has been arranged for the meeting. This will insure the quick transportation of the large crowds to and from the city to the arena.

DR. KING HERE

Mr. King will be accompanied on his visit here by Hon. J. H. King, Minister of Public Works, in his late Government. Dr. King will be the only speaker in addition to the former Premier at the arena meeting. It is planned to give all the available time to these two speakers.

While making arrangements for this meeting officials of the Liberal Association are busy planning for the city Liberal convention, the date of which will be fixed during the next few days. The convention will be held during the next week, it is understood.

TOLMIE RETURNS

Conservatives will renominate Hon. S. P. Tolmie here at a meeting in the Conservative rooms tonight. Dr. Tolmie is due to arrive here today.

TRAIN WITH 200 ABOARD RAN WILD

Lives Saved by Collision Near Newcastle, England; Driver Fell Out

London, Aug. 9.—(Canadian Press Cable)—An electric train which ran wild for two miles, menaced traffic along the way because it was without a driver and appeared to be heading straight for the central station in Newcastle, where probably it would have crashed into an outgoing passenger train, was stopped at Manor East, near Newcastle, when it collided with a freight train.

The driverless train had 200 passengers aboard, only five of whom were injured in the collision. Their injuries were slight, however. The body of the driver was found two miles from where the collision occurred, it being evident he had fallen out of the train.

E.C. DRURY ENTERS FEDERAL CONTEST

Stayner, Ont., Aug. 9.—One of the keenest election contests in Ontario in the Federal general election will take place in the constituency of North Simcoe, where E. C. Drury, who was Premier of Ontario during the administration of the United Farmers, and W. A. Dugg, K.C., of Barrie, chief Conservative whip in the last House, are the candidates. Mr. Drury, whose farm home is near the village of Crown Hill, was nominated at a largely-attended Progressive convention here Saturday. It is likely the fight will be between these two, as the Liberals are not expected to name a man. In his nomination address, Mr. Drury criticized the Conservative nominee in the constituency for acting as counsel in an alleged bribery and smuggling at Barrie, the latter case, the Progressive nominee dealing at length with this matter.

CANADIANS INVITED TO BIG U.S. FLEET FUNCTION AT SEATTLE

His Honor Lieutenant-Governor Randolph Bruce, Premier Oliver and representatives of British Columbia cities are being invited by the United States Navy to attend an official luncheon to the United States Pacific Fleet in Seattle August 11. Invitations for this function issued today indicate that it will be an international in character and a thoroughly representative of the close relations between Washington State and British Columbia. Officers commanding the United States Pacific Fleet as well as high officials of the Navy Department will attend.

VANCOUVER SOON TO HAVE C.N.R. HOTEL

Contract For Construction Let to E. J. Ryan Company, Says Ottawa Announcement

Ottawa, Aug. 9.—Arrangements have been completed by the Canadian National Railways for the erection of a 500-room hotel in Vancouver, and the contract has been approved by the Government. It is announced in a statement issued here.

The announcement adds that this contract is in redemption of the agreement made by the Canadian Northern Railway with the city of Vancouver. Under this agreement the Canadian Northern Railway system was obligated to the erection of a hotel in Vancouver, but besides that had to carry out other construction which would have meant the expenditure of at least $3,000,000.

EXPENDITURES SAVED

Negotiations, the statement says, have been under way between the Canadian National Railways and the city of Vancouver, with the approval of the Department of Railways, to reach an understanding whereby considerable of this expenditure would be saved. An agreement was finally reached with the city that if a hotel should be built the city would

ATTEMPT TO KILL POLICE MAGISTRATE IN EDMONTON HOME

Edmonton, Aug. 9.—The family of Lieut.-Colonel George B. McLeod, magistrate, narrowly escaped serious injuries when their home was shattered by an explosion Saturday night. One side of the house was damaged by the blast, which, police think, was due to dynamite or gunpowder placed there by unknown persons.

MAN AND WIFE FOUND SHOT TO DEATH IN GRUESOME TRAGEDY

Police Believe Gerald Philip Haddon Shot Wife and Then Himself in Deal Street Home Early Sunday; Worry Over Ailing Sister and Financial Troubles Believed Cause of Tragedy; Eight-year-old Boy Orphaned.

Gerald Philip Haddon, forty-two, and his wife Elsie Haddon, thirty-eight, of 1027 Deal Street, Oak Bay, are dead in one of the most appalling tragedies in the annals of the city.

Murder and suicide, with a temporarily unbalanced man responsible for the double killings, say the police, alone can account for the gruesome find made by neighbors in the cellar of the Deal Street home yesterday.

A black cocker spaniel that whined piteously at the head of the cellar steps led to the finding of the grim contents of the desolated premises.

At 3.50 p.m. yesterday, James H. Selves, a neighbor resident at 1039 Deal Street, crossed the garden to feed the dog in the belief that Mr. and Mrs. Haddon had left for their Summer camp. Pushing open the cellar door, which was unlatched, Mr. Selves saw the body of the man lying in a pool of blood on the cellar floor. Without entering the house Mr. Selves communicated with Chief Syme of the Oak Bay Police.

GRUESOME DISCOVERY

Chief Syme and Constable Paterson responded to the summons. Entering by way of the basement door the police found the body of Gerald Philip Haddon lying on top of a Winchester .30.30 rifle, with a gaping wound in the head.

At the head of the cellar steps the spaniel crouched and whined at the cell side of the door leading up to the first floor of the house. The police followed the dog. In a bedroom on the ground floor they came on the body of Mrs. Elsie Haddon, which lay in a welter of blood half under the bed, from which it had fallen.

Man and wife had been dead some hours when the police arrived on the scene. Evidence of the fact that the double tragedy took place in the early hours of Sunday morning was not lacking. Both were attired in nightclothes, the barefoot body of Mr. Haddon being found clothed in pyjamas at the foot of the cellar steps. That of Mrs. Haddon had fallen from the bed from which she had obviously been aroused to meet death in an unexpected and terrible form.

EARLY SUNDAY MORNING

From a close examination of the house the police are led to believe that the tragedy occurred during the early hours of Sunday morning. The powder blackened the pillow and the bed from which Mrs. Haddon was fired from the rifle, two in the bedroom on the ground floor and one in the cellar.

In a room on the second floor was a bed that had been occupied, presumably by the man. At its side was a loaded shotgun, with live cartridges in both barrels. On the bed cover lay a single .30.30 calibre live cartridge with a soft-nosed hunting bullet. Similar cartridges were found in the rifle taken from under the body in the cellar. Three of the body had been fired from the rifle, two in the bedroom on the ground floor and one in the cellar.

FIRST SHOT MISSED MARK

From an examination of the bullet marks the police believe Haddon descended from the second story bedroom to that of his wife. The first shot fired apparently missed its mark, the bullet blackening the pillow and the bed but not hitting the body. The bullet bored through the pillow, mattress and out to the wall beyond. The shells were ejected at a point on the left hand side of the bed, falling eight feet away on the floor.

Whether she had been asleep and was roused by the first shot or not will likely never be known, but police believe Mrs. Haddon was sitting bolt upright in the bed when the second and fatal shot was fired. The bullet traversed the lower part of the abdomen from left to right, the soft-nosed missile splintering to atoms and tearing the whole side at the point of exit. Splinters of the bullet, bones and blood were sprayed on the covers and wall at the right-hand side of the bed.

Mortally hurt, Mrs. Haddon fell off the bed and rolled under the bed, her deranged covers on the right side of the room, where the police found the remains at 4 p.m. yesterday.

THIRD SHOT NOT HEARD

The third shot fired from the rifle was not heard in the neighborhood, so far as the police can ascertain at the moment. That it was fired by Haddon himself they are certain, from the position of the body, the rifle, and the course taken by the bullet. The third missile entered the right eye of the man, practically lifting off the crown of the head in emerging again, continuing its course the bullet penetrated the wooden under-ceiling of the cellar and was stopped by a door-strip on the floor of the first story.

NO OUTSIDE AGENCY

After a complete check-up of the house and its contents the police abandoned the theory of outside interference. (Continued on page 2)

DIED DURING GAME OF TENNIS SUNDAY

E. Drummond-Hay of Helmecken Rd. Had Fatal Seizure While Playing

Seized with a heart attack while playing tennis, Edward Drummond-Hay, a well-known resident of Helmecken Road, collapsed and died with tragic suddenness yesterday afternoon at the home of a neighbor.

Although his health had not been good for some time, Mr. Drummond-Hay appeared in his usual good health while playing and was evidently enjoying the game, when he suddenly staggered and fell. Dr. D. B. Holden was immediately called and was on the scene within a few minutes but life was extinct.

The late Mr. Drummond-Hay was born at the British Consulate in Morocco, sixty-two years ago. He had been a resident of Canada for thirty-five years, first farming and then being in the lumber business in Manitoba for many years. After his retirement from business he came to Victoria to reside and had lived here for the last fifteen months. He was a cousin of the late C. Drummond-Hay, of Gorge Road.

He is survived by his widow living at the family residence, two sons, Major Drummond-Hay of the Princess Patricia's and Lieut. Drummond-Hay of the 16th Battalion, who were killed overseas during the war. The funeral will leave the B.C. Funeral Chapel on Tuesday at 2 p.m. proceeding to St. John's Church, Colwood, where Rev. W. Pearce will conduct the services at 2.30. Interment will be made in Colwood cemetery.

BOIVIN FUNERAL IS SET FOR WEDNESDAY

Montreal, Aug. 9.—The remains of Hon. George H. Boivin, who died on Saturday in Philadelphia, arrived here this morning en route to Granby, Quebec, where the funeral will be held on Wednesday.

Mrs. Boivin, widow of the ex-Minister, with her children, accompanied the body.

Hon. P. J. A. Carlin, ex-Minister of Marine and Fisheries, joined the party in Montreal and proceeded to Granby, where he will attend the funeral.

DEATHS IN CANTON

FOUR KILLED BY GREAT EXPLOSION

Three Missing as Result of Accident at Fireworks Plant in Rhode Island

Those Suffering From Injuries or Shock Number
Twenty-five

Providence, R.I., Aug. 9.—Four persons lost their lives, three are missing and twenty-five are either injured or suffering from shock as the result of an explosion which destroyed the Bristol Fireworks Company's plant at Bristol, R.I., this morning.

The explosion, the cause of which is unknown, injured people and caused damage to buildings within a radius of a mile. Two adjacent houses were destroyed by fire which followed the blast.

Giuseppe Georgio, the proprietor, was blown through the roof by the explosion, which also killed his wife and son and Luigi Tumbarello, an employee.

The factory was completely razed. Windows were shattered for nearly half a mile about the factory and the explosion was heard for several miles.

In addition to the known dead, three are missing. They are Mrs. Manuel Pachico and her two children, Thomas Georgio, son of the manufacturer, is the only worker known to have survived the blast. He was still hysterical this afternoon and it could not be learned how many persons were working in the establishment.

Indescribable confusion seized the district after the blast.

Fire apparatus was rushed to the scene. Every medical doctor in Bristol answered the emergency calls while Rev. Thomas Kelly, curate of St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church, rushed to give the last rites of the church to the victims.

Persons walking a short distance away were thrown to the ground by the force of the explosion, while a mile away two workmen on a platform at a school were tossed to the ground.

James, second son of the proprietor, was rushed to a hospital and died a few hours later.

BOY BURNED
A boy passing the factory when the blast occurred was severely burned.

Mrs. Henry Sylvia, living 100 feet from the factory, and her daughter, Elizabeth, were severely cut.

Two plateglass windows in the Belvedere Hotel, more than a mile away, were shattered.

COOLIDGE DEBT DISCUSSION CLOSED

Clemenceau States France
Cannot Repay as Agreed;
U.S. President is Firm

Plymouth, Vermont, Aug. 9.—The position of President Coolidge is that the negotiations regarding the war-time debt owed by France to the United States are closed.

President Coolidge, when informed through press dispatches of the open letter from Premier Clemenceau of France had addressed to him on the war debts, indicated the Washington Government stood for the conducting of its relations with the French people on all questions through their duly-constituted diplomatic authorities.

FOR POSTPONEMENT
Paris, Aug. 9.—Whatever may be the effect of the open letter from Georges Clemenceau, France's war-time Premier, to the President of the United States, it is considered it will strengthen that section of Premier Poincaré's Cabinet which favors postponement of action on the ratification of the Washington debt pact.

Mr. Clemenceau, in his appeal to Mr. Coolidge, said the Washington agreement not only could not be carried out, but that it threatened France's independence. He requested the President not to place the funding of war debts upon a purely commercial basis. He said the French-

United States agreements were impossible of fulfillment, because they would necessitate a loan "with solid security in the shape of our territorial possessions, as was the case with Turkey."

He warned President Coolidge France would never accept such a thing.

"The Tiger" also said France was fearful lest the United States was adopting "the old-time policy of England," of controlling Europe by playing off one continental power against another.

DUTIES RECOGNIZED
The former Premier told of the sufferings of France during the war and asked where France had failed to fulfill all the demands of duty.

The war-time Premier's sudden in-cursion into the arena of politics has been a good impression both in political circles and among the general public of France.

TREATIES COMPARED
For once "the Tiger" has apparently taken off the famous gray gloves of his diplomacy. He compared the separate peace treaty made by the United States with Germany with the separate treaty made by Russia at Brest-Litovsk during the World War. Both were made, he charged, without the "slightest attempt" to adjust matters with their comrades in arms.

The spirited appeal of "the Tiger," who will be eighty-five years old next month, came unexpectedly and with dramatic suddenness.

SAND-KILLED THREE CHILDREN

Regina, Aug. 9.—Buried under a deluge of sand and gravel, three children were suffocated Sunday afternoon while playing on the bank of the Saskatchewan River near Herbert,
150 miles west of Regina.

They were Lena Dyck, twelve; Tina
Dyck, five; Peter Dyck, three.

They were children of Mr. and Mrs.
David Dyck, a dairy farmer of the Herbert district. Just a few days ago Mrs. Dyck had a premonition disaster would visit the family, and had warned the children to be careful while playing in the sand along the river bank.

FLOOD DAMAGE IN MONTREAL

Montreal, Aug. 9.—One of the heaviest rain and electrical storms ever experienced in this district visited Montreal over the week-end and caused considerable damage. The total rainfall was 4.25 inches. A water main burst in the west end of the city and washed away the foundations of street car tracks. Cellars also became flooded owing to the sewers not being able to carry away the unusually large amount of water.

TWO YOUTHS DROWNED

Winnipeg, Aug. 9.—A double drowning was reported from Pine Falls, Man. Two youths lost their lives when their canoe upset in the Winnipeg River. Their names were given as Taylor Cherry, Winnipeg, eighteen, and his companion, named Howitz, age and place of residence unknown.

Boy Prevented Tong Murder

La Grande, Ore., Aug. 8.—Because Melvin Baxter, Cove, Oregon, boy, held two gunmen at bay the life of Charlie Ing, sixty, only member of the Bo Long tong in La Grande, was saved, Deputy Sheriff Hugo Klinghammer declares. Ing told the officer the assailants were members of the Hop Sing tong.

Ing, who lives in La Grande, fearing a tong war death, left here ten days ago to hide on the George Conley ranch, about fifteen miles northeast of here. Yesterday two Chinese armed with revolvers found him at the farm. Young Baxter, with Ing in the house with him, kept off the gunmen by firing a .22 rifle and a revolver for three hours until help arrived.

If you have found something of value it is one of the "unwritten commandments" that you should advertise it.

have just completed. Abundant resources, a hard-working and virile people, supplemented by increasing immigration of the right kind, will solve all our problems. But I must say that we ought to be doing a little more than we are towards paying off that debt.

"I would like to congratulate you on the opening of the new drydock in Esquimalt harbor, which I understand will be the second largest in the world, with all the latest equipment known to the shipbuilding trade. Such an asset cannot fail to be of great value to the commerce of this city and Vancouver Island."

BRITISH CITIZENSHIP HEAVY COST

"Living alongside the United States, which grew rich out of the war that left us so much poorer, our conditions naturally come into comparison with theirs. The fortune of war put them ahead financially and put us behind, and we shall for some time have heavier taxes to pay here and not so much money, either privately or publicly, to spend. But what of it? We came out of the war with a record of which generations to come in Canada will be forever proud, and thank God we are citizens still of the greatest Empire the world has ever known. To those who prize that citizenship, and I don't believe that in any part of Canada it is more highly prized than here, the value of what was won is far in excess of the price we have to pay. We need not be dismayed about the price, but it has to be reckoned with and we ought to be taking it more seriously. We probably would take it more seriously if we were living alongside one of more of the war-stricken countries of Europe. We are more fortunate than they because we have greater potential riches to draw upon and our only neighbor is friendly, but we have Canada's future to think of too and we must not mortgage it too heavily. It wouldn't be fair to those who will come after us. We should make up our minds to the outstanding fact that through no fault of our own we have had to pay a big price for holding our British citizenship, but it is worth the money and if we have to pay for a few years to our good friends in the United States like poor relations, we have compensation and we will catch up in time. If we pin our faith to hard work and prudence in public and private expenditure as the only sure basis of prosperity, rather than in legislation which is powerless to correct the fundamental conditions, then there can be no doubt that we shall experience a prosperity not surpassed by any other country in the world."

PEKING CONFERENCE AN UTTER FAILURE

WANTS FREE HAND
Many foresee an ultimate rift in the friendship of Cheng and Wu, on account of the former's desire for a free hand in Manchuria.
The Peking conference commenced on October 18, says Mr. Landon, and at times, he said, Admiral Tsi Ting-Kun was the only man left in Peking with executive authority and there was often no government of any kind whatever.

WITH THE SOVIET

Feng U. Hsiang, famed Christian general of the Kuomintang, who was literally driven into the arms of the Soviet, is at present in Moscow, Mr. Landon declares, doing all in his power to help his old party. As Feng had no support from which to supply his troops, he was driven to Russia for assistance and is now exerting himself from within the Soviet's borders for the cause which drove him a refugee from his native land.

San Chuan-feng, military dictator of the lower Yangtze provinces, was a man to watch, said Mr. Landon. He was a rising power in China.

Referring to the trouble in Canton, Mr. Landon stated that the more intelligent of the Chinese merchants were beginning to grow disgusted with the situation and the boycott against the British interests in China was losing its keenness, he thought.

SOVIET'S INFLUENCE
Mr. Landon does not doubt for a moment that the Soviet influence is strongly anti-British throughout China. He did not doubt, he said, but that the Soviet or Red Russians did all they could to wreck British prestige in the Far East and that they were unutterably jealous of the British commercial hold there.

Concluding, Mr. Landon asserted that the work of the Peking conference had been rendered useless because of the inability to find adequate representatives of China, either for the government or the conference itself. There were twelve foreign delegates there, he said, all of whom worked wholeheartedly for the welfare of China and since their interests were common, might accomplish much, given co-operation from the Chinese government.

HOSIE IS NAMED B.C. LIBRARIAN

Scholefield, then Provincial Librarian, and took a leading part in designing the present Library Building for the work now carried on there. Later he was responsible for organizing the legislative reference department, which is invaluable to the Government and the Legislature in keeping abreast of developments in legislation all over the British Empire. This department is unique in Canada, and has proved its worth since its inception. Much of the present standing of the Library as a whole is due to Mr. Hosie's work.

not press its claims for tunnels, stations and other construction.
The contract has been let to the E. J. Ryan Construction Co. Limited, and construction will begin immediately.

TWO REASONS

"Sir Henry Thornton has carefully considered the situation in Vancouver and has urged very strongly that this hotel be built for two reasons—first, to relieve the company of expensive obligations, and second, because the enormous tourist traffic of Vancouver has made it almost necessary on the part of the Canadian National Railway system, if it is to participate to the extent to which it is entitled, to have a hotel for the accommodation of this traffic."

"In his letter to Sir Henry Drayton, Acting Prime Minister, Sir Henry Thornton points out that the construction of this hotel will relieve the railway company of expenditures of $1,150,000. He also points out that the hotel accommodation in Vancouver is not adequate, and that a careful estimate has been made by the hotel department of the National Railways, and it has been found the net profit from operation will meet all interest charges on capital and leave a small margin before expenses."

FINANCES IMPROVE

"Sir Henry Thornton points out that the results from the operation of the railways this year are so satisfactory and so far in advance of what was anticipated when his estimates were submitted to Parliament during its last session that he is now in a position to state the total cost of the hotel and furnishings can be taken care of out of the surplus earnings."

afternoon from Vancouver to accept nomination. He will be the feature speaker at the Conservative Association's annual picnic at the Willows Beach on Wednesday afternoon. C. H. Dickie, Conservative candidate in Nanaimo, also will speak.

SEATTLE, Aug. 8.—Two additional dates in the Federal election campaign itinerary of Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King were announced today. On Tuesday, August 9, Mr. King will speak in Moose Jaw, Sask., and on Wednesday, August 10, in Brandon, Manitoba.

MEIGHEN NOMINATED

Winnipeg, Aug. 8.—With the acceptance of his nomination as Federal candidate in the constituency of Portage la Prairie, Right Hon. Arthur Meighen Saturday afternoon opened his campaign in his home county. The Prime Minister stated his policy in regard to railway freight rates, the Canadian National Railways and the tariff, and discussed the events leading up to the change of government.

The nomination was tendered at a largely attended Conservative convention held at Marquette, equally distant from Winnipeg and the city of Portage la Prairie. It was proposed by Jonathan Troop of Burnside, a veteran Conservative, and seconded by E. Lacour. No other name was brought forward.

There were many French-Canadians in the audience, and out of courtesy to them, Mr. Meighen gave a short speech in the French language after his main address.

PICTOU NOMINATION

Pictou, N.S., Aug. 8.—James A. Fraser, eighty-seven years old, editor of The New Glasgow Eastern Chronicle, who was offered the Liberal Federal nomination in Pictou County and given a week in which to decide whether or not to accept, has announced his intention of contesting the county.

Mr. Fraser has publicly announced that if elected he will support a secession movement in the interest of Nova Scotia.

FRONTENAC-ADDITION

Kingsport, Aug. 8.—There will be no three-cornered contest in Frontenac-Addington in the coming Federal election, the Liberals having decided not to nominate a candidate.

Although no resolution was passed at the meeting pledging support to the Progressive candidate, R. J. Bushnell, speakers urged Liberals to vote for him.

Federal nominations reported in dispatches to The Times include: Willow Bunch, Sask.—Dr. T. F. Donnelly, Liberal.
St. Boniface—Dr. J. P. Howden, Liberal.
West Peterboro, Ont.—J. J. Duffus, Liberal.
North Simcoe, Ont.—E. C. Drury, Progressive.
Toronto East Centre—Cecil W. Armstrong, Independent Conservative.
Portage la Prairie, Man.—Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, Conservative.
Renfrew, Ont.—W. V. Kirk, Conservative.
Victoria-Carleton, N.B.—J. K. Fleming, Conservative.

LIFE DECLARED MENACED

Vancouver, Aug. 8.—Tom Robillard is under arrest here charged with attempted murder as the result of allegedly threatening to kill Edward M. Bradner and attacking him with a razor.

BIG SUMMER STORM VISITS NOVA SCOTIA

Five Men Drowned in Sinking Ship; Rain Benefits Fruit Crop

Halifax, Aug. 8.—The rain that fell Saturday night over a large area in the western portion of Nova Scotia "was worth a million dollars to the crops," according to A. E. McMahon, president of the United Fruit Company of Nova Scotia, and other authorities familiar with conditions throughout the Annapolis Valley.
Along the eastern coast, however, the heavy fall of rain was accompanied by a gale and in some sections the storm did damage estimated in the thousands of dollars, principally to shipping. Practically the entire coast of the province along the Atlantic suffered to some extent, the greatest disaster being reported from Scuterie Island off Cape Breton, where the steamer Ringhorn was lost with five members of her crew.

FISHERMEN LOSE

At New Harbor, about twenty miles from Guysboro, the gale struck with terrific force, leaving great damage in its wake. The fishermen of this district were the chief sufferers, eleven thirty-five-foot auxiliary fishing boats being either sunk or driven out to sea. The storm at this point was reported the worst in years, and coming at the height of the fishing season, just when fishermen were preparing for a swordfish expedition, it will mean serious loss to those whose boats were swept away.

Various messages giving conflicting details of the disaster were received here today and told of the loss of the Norwegian steamship Ringhorn with five members of her crew on Saturday night.

STRUCK IN FOG

The vessel struck during a severe easterly storm, accompanied by much fog, shortly before midnight, while nearing the entrance of Louisbourg Harbor, whether she was presumably bound for a supply of bunker coal. She was on a voyage across the Atlantic from Parramatta, N.S., to Manchester, with approximately 1,000,000 feet of spruce deals and scantling.

Of the seventeen men comprising her crew, five were drowned and the remainder rescued, according to the latest information received in Halifax.

When the Ringhorn struck, rockets were sent up and calls for assistance broadcast. She grounded about 100 yards from shore at the most exposed section of the coast and it was soon evident she was doomed. Throughout the night she was pounded by the tempest and in the morning went to pieces, the storm having abated little if any in fury.

AT YOUR DEALER'S

Is Breakfast Unimportant?

THE longest fast of the day precedes breakfast. The hardest work of the day follows it. Under such circumstances how can breakfast be of little importance?

Indeed, this first meal of your day is possibly the most important. For beyond the fact that you have not eaten for ten or twelve hours or more; beyond the fact that you must supply to your body anew the elements it needs for the day's work, is this fact—your bodily organs have been resting during the night and they are prepared to extract the maximum nourishment from the foods you eat at breakfast. Make sure that maximum nourishment is there—that your breakfast contains the precious essential elements of nutrition, and in the right proportions.

But don't think you need be a food expert to do this.

A man who studied foods all his life has done it for you—originated one delicious food which gives you the five essential elements of nutrition—that food is Grape-Nuts.

The Vital Nourishment Your Body Needs is in This Food

Grape-Nuts is made from whole wheat and malted barley. It furnishes dextrins, maltose and other carbohydrates for energy; iron for the blood; phosphorus for bones and teeth; protein for muscle and body-building; and the essential Vitamin-B. One serving of Grape-Nuts with milk or cream supplies more varied nourishment than many a hearty meal!
And Grape-Nuts is so delicious! Its crisp, golden kernels are prepared by a special baking process which results in a particularly tempting, nut-like flavor. And the same process makes Grape-Nuts very easy to digest.

And Grape-Nuts is crisp—a food you like to chew, thus giving your teeth and gums the healthful exercise they need.

Make Grape-Nuts a part of your daily diet. It's very inexpensive—four teaspoonsful costing less than one cent is sufficient for a serving. Your grocer has Grape-Nuts in wax-wrapped packages ready to eat right from the package. Or, if you wish, accept the free offer below.

A NATIONAL LOSS

CANADIAN PUBLIC LIFE IS VERY much poorer by the death of Hon. George H. Boivin, former Minister of Customs, which occurred at Philadelphia on Saturday following an operation. Although still in his early forties, Mr. Boivin was one of the most distinguished figures in the House of Commons of which he had been a member for fifteen years. A man of lofty principles, compelling personality and unusual talents, he was marked by both Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Sir Robert Borden as one upon whom high destiny had set its seal. When the House of Commons met for its first session after the formation of the Union Government, Mr. Boivin was appointed Deputy-Speaker by the Premier, Sir Robert Borden, and, notwithstanding his youth, discharged his duties with consummate ability. At that time he came into conflict with Hon. Mr. Patenaude—now Minister of Justice—who had resigned from the Borden Government as a protest against the Military Service Act, because Mr. Boivin would not support an amendment designed to kill that measure outright.

Mr. Boivin became Minister of Customs and Excise in the King Government last September, on the eve of the general election campaign. Parliament met two months after the election, so the new Minister had very little time to familiarize himself with the affairs of the Department over which he had been called to preside. When his attention was called to irregularities in the outside service he appointed Detective Duncan, secret service investigator, with instructions to probe the matter to the bottom. This was before Mr. Stevens laid his charges, which were based upon information supplied to him by stealth by one of the inspector's aides.

The Stevens amendment introduced in the House of Commons during the last few days of the session sought to hold Mr. Boivin culpable because he withheld for a time an order for the commitment to jail of a man found guilty of smuggling. He did this at the request of a member of Parliament who wanted to discuss the matter with him and after consultation with officials of his Department. He, however, adhering to his opinion that the man should go to jail, the warrant was issued and the culprit is serving his punishment. There was nothing unique in this proceeding. Mr. Boys, member for North Simcoe and Conservative whip in the House, had intervened in a much more flagrant case. But opponents, desperately hungry for office, magnified the action of the Minister into a crime of heinous proportion. And—to mark the irony of all this assault upon a chivalrous, high-minded, if inexperienced, young Minister—among his critics were men who had been driven from public life for the time being for their complicity in the hideous war scandals of a few years ago. There can be no question that Mr. Boivin's health was seriously undermined by the efforts of his opponents to manufacture political capital at his expense as a means of getting hold of the reins of office.

Mr. Boivin's untimely death will be deeply deplored not only in his native province, of which he was so promising an ornament, but in every other section of the country where he is known.

THAT "SEA SERPENT"

AFTER PATIENTLY SUFFERING RIDICULE for several years the people of the Okanagan Valley are beginning to look forward to the day when that curious monster which has been disappearing itself in the waters of Okanagan Lake at intervals for a long time past will be tangible enough to balance a little salt on its tail. Our good friends in that delightful part of British Columbia have taken their own particular sea serpent quite seriously ever since they have read the various testimony of several highly respectable citizens who were never known to suffer from any of the ailments which are supposed to be responsible for the production of hallucinations. They feel, and rightly so, that a time has come to get down to "brass tacks" and convince the sceptics in other parts of this Province that Okanagan Lake is not merely a lake in the generally accepted sense of the term, but also the special preserve of some great living creature which unbelievers have held captive within the two covers of a fairy tale book or within the pages of scientific records. There is, in fact, an air of "I-told-you-so" from one end of the valley to the other. Orchardists are getting up earlier in the morning so that they may have a little time off during the day to take a share of the watch which is now being kept on the placid waters of the lake. They are confident of the result. Each one, moreover, is determined to do his share to counteract the slander which for so long has hung like a pall over the citizens of the valley. No longer is it to be said that this strange lake monster is a creature of the imagination.

OURS JUST AS GOOD

IN THE CORRESPONDENCE COLUMNS of a Vancouver newspaper two gentlemen are battling over the subject of political morals in Canada and political morals in Great Britain. One is thanking his lucky stars and other incidental possessions that he was born in England where political customs, according to his view, are "infinitely more honorable and honest." The other distinctly resents the version of this "superior mind" and generally asserts that the lawmakers of this country, though, perhaps, not "shining lights of virtue," are at least as honest and intelligent as those of any other.

The men who leave their homes in various parts of this country to put in several months at Ottawa are just as genuine in their desire to render service to their country as the men who sit at Westminster or Washington. And very often their entrance into politics in all countries is marked by heavy sacrifices.

The tone of political life, whether in Canada or in Britain, is determined largely by the character of a member's constituency. Parliament is a pretty accurate mirror of the nation as a whole. In intelligence, ability and morality it averages somewhat higher than the electorate. As far as the Canadian Parliament is concerned, it compares very favorably with any other representative assembly in the world. It is a long time since its proceedings have been marred by scenes of physical violence—and this can not be said for even the venerable "Mother of Parliaments" at Westminster.

A POOR CASE

IN AN OPEN LETTER TO PRESIDENT Coolidge former Premier Clemenceau gently hints to the United States that France will not be able to pay her debt on the terms arranged between Mr. Mellon and M. Berenger without endangering her independence.

Presumably this means that France considers it necessary to continue spending huge sums of money to maintain a naval and military and aerial defensive establishment big enough to deal with any real or imaginary emergency. In that case it means also that France also considers it necessary to have money to loan to Poland, to run campaigns in various parts of northern Africa, to continue her unsuccessful regime in Syria. All this preparedness, all this military and semi-military activity six years after the world had considered the chief menace to its peace had disappeared, surely is the poorest sort of a case that France could put up to the United States in any plea for reconsideration of her liability to that country.

It is not surprising, therefore, that President Coolidge should state definitely to-day that the negotiations regarding the debt are closed. Commercial interchange between the various nations may not be best served by speedy or complete payment of all these war debts; but it is certain that a policy which would make it easier for any nation to ignore them and spend money owing on war's paraphernalia would be highly dangerous for debtors and creditors alike.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

SPAIN AND THE LEAGUE

From El Debate (Madrid)
The absence of the United States from the League of Nations and the withdrawal of Brazil and Spain if they are not assigned permanent seats makes the League of Nations a league of several European States. Spain, first of neutral countries during the Great War, will not figure on this list. It is necessary to state that all the nations have acknowledged the value of Spanish collaboration in the League of Nations. The judgment of Ambassadors Quintones de Leon in disputed matters between Germany and Poland has always been considered by Poland as full of dignity and impartiality. It appears to us that the problem of the permanent place of Spain in the Council of the League of Nations is closely bound up with the prestige and authority of the Wilsonian organization.

BEATING PHILEAS FOG'S RECORD

From The Ottawa Citizen
Whenever an around-the-world feat is accomplished, most persons' minds revert to the Jules Verne fable, famous these fifty years, called "Around the World in Eighty Days." It is a sort of standard by which all globe-circling exploits are measured. The Associated Press correspondent in New York could not resist the reference to Jules Verne's novel in his story of the earth circlers, Della and Evans, who tried to make the long journey in twenty-eight days and failed by 14 1/2 hours.

Jules Verne's hero was a respectable English gentleman of phlegmatic temperament and methodical traits, Phileas Fogg by name. Maintaining in a distant London club, he makes a wager around the world in eighty days, he makes a wager of half his fortune that he can do it. The wager is accepted, and taking his French servant, Passepartout, he starts the same night.

He wins, after a series of adventures in which nature, man, accident and the novel combine to defeat him. All are baffled by his unflinching resourcefulness, and Napoleon's readiness to sacrifice everything else to the essential point of twice risks defeat, first to save from suttee the beautiful Hindu widow Aouda, and second to save Passepartout from murder at the hands of a Chinese mob.

John Henry Mears lowered the record of Phileas Fogg's record in 1913, when in a five days, twenty-one hours and thirty-five minutes. And now Linton Wells and Edward Evans have lopped more than a week off the thirteen-year-old record of Mears. It is a handsome achievement and ranks with the foremost travel exploits of modern times. The chief effect of the world around trip will be to demonstrate that the aeroplane has now become a great practical factor in human transportation. More than one-third of the distance was flown, the longest flight being from Moscow to Omsk, a journey of 1,500 miles. Striking as this record is, however, it is not likely to stand as long as Mears's did.

A THOUGHT

Judge not that ye be not judged, for with what judgment ye judge, ye shall be judged; and with what measure ye mete, it shall be measured to you again.—Matt., vii, 1, 2.

Forbear to judge, for we are sinners all.—Shakespeare.

KEEP IT DARK

To be admonished to keep a certain matter "dark" is equivalent to being told to hold one's tongue, or to be as talkative as an Egyptian mummy. The expression arose in the dialect of sea pirates and highwaymen who were in the habit of hiding their treasure in dark places for better concealment.

Canadian Questions and Answers

CANADIAN GRAIN SHIPMENTS

Q—What were the Canadian grain shipments in 1925?
A—Total shipments of Canadian and United States grain through the ports of Montreal and Vancouver last year were 206,316,620 bushels, according to information given in the House of Commons to-day. Total shipments through the port of Montreal were 171,543,326 bushels, through the port of Vancouver 34,773,294 bushels were shipped. The total quantity of grain shipped through the head of the lakes (Port William-Port Arthur) was 316,445,680 bushels.

EVIDENCES OF CANADIAN PROSPERITY

Q—What are some of the evidences of Canadian prosperity?
A—The Bank of Montreal bulletin says: "Steadily increasing Canadian car-loadings and railway earnings afford conclusive evidence of activity in trade. Building operations are brisk in the central and western provinces, to the advantage of the iron and steel trade and to larger sales of building materials. Nova Scotia coal mines are again producing well up to capacity, and while the Dominion Iron and Steel Co. Limited has gone into the hands of a receiver, the new plan of reorganization, there has been no cessation of work in the plant. The automobile industry, now becoming one of importance, is experiencing seasonal slack after a period of sales in excess of any preceding year."

"WATCH AND SEE"

To the Editor—I notice that Sir Henry Drayton is reported as saying in his nomination speech that not a Conservative administrator was concerned in the customs revelations. Well, well! Here are the "main guys," aside from ministers: R. R. Farrow, Deputy Minister; W. D. McLaughlin, important port officer; Bisailion, chief culprit, etc. Not one of whom is a Liberal. All are Tories. In fact nearly every official found guilty of wrongdoing was a Tory. And here is my guess: Weldon, McLaughlin and Farrow will not be dismissed, even though Parliament ordered it. "Watch and see."

G. H. G. RAY.

THE LATE HON. G. H. BOIVIN AND CUSTOMS INQUIRY

To the Editor:—The lamented death of that young statesman, the late Hon. G. H. Boivin, at this time, surely will cause some of the politicians taking part in the present election campaign to stop, think, and possibly realize the relationship of the recent customs troubles to the early death of Mr. Boivin.

Having served at a previous time over five years in a Federal Government department the writer is in a position to appreciate how a minister in charge of a department is at the mercy of his officials, and how if these officials do not live up to what is expected of them in the way of integrity, then their actions must of necessity reflect upon the minister in charge of the department, even though he himself may be strictly loyal to his duties.

There is no doubt but what the worry of office and more especially the persecution of certain members of the opposition, not necessarily for the good of Canada, but for the purpose of placing themselves in office, had quite a lot to do with the low physical condition of Mr. Boivin, which led up to his death.

After all the conditions that exist in the customs department of Canada, have not existed only during the time of the Liberal administration, but go back to the time of the Conservative Governments as well, and while there can be no excuse for such conditions, yet the people should remember that both parties are equally to blame, and the root of the whole trouble is "machine politics."

The first warning that a young man receives when beginning to take an interest in Provincial or Federal politics, is to keep out of them, as it is a dirty game. I already appreciate the truth of that warning, but surely it is a condition of affairs that cannot be permitted to continue for any length of time, as the date cannot be long distant when the people will rise and demand a clean up in the existing conditions.

Perhaps in discussing the Margaret time and the customs inquiry the Hon. Mr. Meighen and his followers will also relate the graft and robbery that took place in the Conservative administration during the Great War, when men were sent to their death in Flanders armed with defective rifles, equipment, etc. Why the customs department was not known to the people of Canada, the Hon. Mr. Meighen, I think, is not known to the people of Canada.

TRIBUTE PAID TO BOIVIN'S MEMORY

King Tells Saskatoon People Late Minister Toiled Hard For Canada

Expresses Regret He Was Attacked so Bitterly While Reorganizing Customs

Saskatoon, Aug. 9 (Canadian Press)—"I have only this to say of Hon. George H. Boivin, that he died as he lived, placing his life as a sacrifice on the altar of his country," said Right Hon. Mackenzie King here Saturday night in the course of a Federal election campaign meeting.

The Liberal leader dealt with the charges which had been made against the late Minister of Customs during the session of the last Parliament, referring to them as "one of the most vicious attacks ever brought against the character of a public man." Mr. King quoted words of Mr. Boivin's defence in the House in June and reminded the people of Canada of their debt to men in public life.

It was early in his speech that Mr. King wished to discuss the national loss which our country has sustained to-day through the death of one of our ablest public servants.

"I refer to my old colleague, Mr. Boivin. I can scarcely trust myself to say very much of Mr. Boivin on this occasion. Word of his death came to me as a very great shock indeed, as it did to all his friends and colleagues, but I think you and the country expect me to say a few words about one who was so widely known.

was DEPUTY SPEAKER
"Mr. Boivin was one of the younger men in public life. He was first elected to the House of Commons in 1911 and was re-elected in 1917, 1921 and 1925. Although he did not belong to the same party as Sir Robert Borden, when it came to choosing a Deputy Speaker he asked Mr. Boivin if he would accept that office, and Mr. Boivin, with the chivalry characteristic of his race, asked Sir Wilfrid Laurier if he should accept the position. Sir Wilfrid told him he should accept it, saying he was one of the few members who had a wide knowledge of parliamentary rules and procedure and a thorough command of both languages.

"When I was called on to form a ministry I asked Mr. Boivin to become Minister of Customs. My reason for asking him was that I knew there was an unfortunate condition which required a minister who would give his time and attention in the most energetic way to the affairs of the Customs. He had been ill for a year and as a consequence there was need for a minister who would take up the work in a most serious way. Mr. Boivin accepted and took up the work with an ardor and zeal that had not been exceeded by a minister in any part of Canada.

MOSES AZIZ CASE
"It was brought to his attention during his campaign, when he dropped into his office one day, that a certain man had been convicted of an offence against the Customs. Mr. Boivin was asked to defer issuing a warrant of commitment for the arrest of this man until the member for that constituency should have a chance to discuss the matter with him.

"Being new to his department and new to the procedure which had been followed in the past, Mr. Boivin asked his Deputy Minister to advise him. The Deputy Minister was a Conservative appointee. Mr. Boivin was a perfectly right thing to do to wait and hear what was to be said before taking any action on the warrant. He said: 'Hold this matter over until I have time, after the election, to take it up and have a word with the member.'

"Although it had been hoped the session would commence in December it was early in January before Parliament met. That was the first chance Mr. Boivin had to discuss the matter with the member. He discussed it then and said he could see no reason why that man should not be committed. Even when the matter was first brought to his attention he said, 'I see no reason why this man should not go to jail at once, but I will wait and see the member.' Later he said nothing had occurred to change his first opinion. The man was put in jail and is in jail at the present time.

STEVENS AMENDMENT

"Out of that incident, which was put before the committee on the customs matter by Mr. Boivin himself, and after the committee had made its report—the report came without a single suggestion that Mr. Boivin had done anything that was wrong—and the report was before the House. Hon. R. H. Stevens brought in an amendment in which he reflected on Mr. Boivin for withholding that warrant of commitment, and out of that amendment, purely for party reasons, there came one of the most vicious attacks ever brought against the character of a public man for purely political reasons.

"During this campaign it has been exaggerated in all kinds of extreme language, and Mr. Boivin has been described as a public man who did not deserve the recognition of his country."

"I don't want to go into this tonight other than to give you the nature of the offence. I put that before you in order that you may understand the nature, extent and the gravity of the offence of which it is claimed he was guilty as a Minister, and in order that his detractors will not be able to say again anything that is not the truth."

QUOTED HANSARD

Mr. King then read the following extract from Hansard of June 22, one of Mr. Boivin's last speeches in the House:
"I do not want to detain you a moment longer, but again I wish to dissociate my colleagues from the censure contained in the amendment moved by my honorable friend from Vancouver Centre."

"As I tried to explain this afternoon, since I became a member of the Government I have renounced my private affairs and abandoned my family life. I have devoted sixteen hours every day and occasionally Sunday to the service of this country, and if, as a reward, I am to be voted out of office to-night, either alone or with my colleagues, I am willing to attribute that act of Parliament to the payment of the debt of service I owe to the country I love most, our own country—Canada."

PROTECTION NEEDED

"I read that little passage," continued Mr. King, "to remind the people of Canada of what they owe their public men. I think perhaps at times of elections we may forget the men who are carrying on the business of the people are doing so at a tremendous sacrifice of their energy, their family life and their leisure. I say I think the people of Canada ought to pause at this moment and ask themselves whether in this Dominion we are going to permit persecution of public men simply at the call of party warfare, or whether we are going to protect our public men when they are prepared to give not only their energy and thought, but their lives as well to the service of the nation. I have only this to say of Mr. Boivin, that he died as he lived, placing his life as a sacrifice at the altar of his country."

FAIR PLAY

"Let me quote what I said on this subject on June 24, remarks which may seem to you in a sense prophetic: 'I say, Mr. Speaker, the majority of honorable members opposite, whatever their professed views may be, in their heart of hearts do not condemn the present Minister of Customs. If Parliament stands for anything, it surely stands for fair play and justice, and I ask the members when they are recording their votes on one or the other of the amendments or on the main motion to remember that every man who goes into public life sooner or later is certain to be subjected to the kind of thing to which my honorable friend is being subjected to-day. I say to the members, judge by the judgment wherewith you expect to be judged, for with what judgment ye judge, ye shall be judged, and with what measure ye meet, it shall be measured to you again.'

Some honorable members: "Oh, oh!"
Mr. Mackenzie King: "Some honorable friends may laugh. They laugh at Scripture. They laugh at anything and everything, but they will find the truth of the words I have just uttered, because these words have stood through many centuries and will stand for many centuries to come."

HOLD PICNIC
ON LABOR DAYPermission For Use of Rodd
Hill Kindly Given to Printers
For Second Year

Victoria Typographical Union No. 201, through their committee selected for the purpose, have decided to hold their second annual picnic at Rodd Hill. The authorities in charge of the grounds have, for the second year in succession, kindly permitted them to have the beautiful grounds so suitably adapted for this purpose and it is expected by those looking after the preparations that the wonderful success of last year will be far surpassed on Labor Day of this year.

Transportation will be by trolley and private automobiles, leaving in the morning, possibly reaching the grounds not later than 10.30.

There will be programmes printed with all the news and games which will be played, including the usual ball game between 'The Times' and 'The Colonist' and the tug-of-war between the job printers and the newspaper men.

Rodd Hill affords one of the best picnic grounds for cleanliness, which is located near the city, and the courtesy shown by the sergeant in charge of the grounds was one of the chief factors in inducing the committee to decide to hold this year's picnic there.

Next week final arrangements will be made regarding transportation and the printers and their friends will be kept posted in regard to the numerous features decided upon.

It has been decided to have a basket picnic, tea, sugar and milk as well as hot water furnished by the union.

The committee in charge of arrangements are as follows: Chairman, S. V. Bowers; secretary, J. D. Davidson; J. H. Hetherington, A. W. Stokes, W. G. Scott, F. G. W. W. L. H. Borde, F. Neelands, A. E. Reif, The W.A., which will have charge of soft drinks and ice cream are represented by Mrs. J. Woodley, Mrs. C. Stratton and Mrs. J. D. Davidson.

DR. J. C. ELLIOTT

"Power of Mind Over Body and Mental Healing" Subject of Address

The auditorium of the Metropolitan Church, packed to the doors last night to hear Dr. J. C. Elliott, address on "Power of Mind Over Body and Mental Healing." Extra chairs were placed in every available space, to accommodate the vast audience. The people listened with marked attention to every word of the speaker as he outlined the power of mind over body from both a scientific and a religious standpoint. The speaker announced that the lecture to-night and to-morrow night would be the most valuable lectures of the week. The subject to-night will be "The Cause, Prevention and Cure of Colds, Influenza and Tuberculosis," and that of Tuesday night is "High Blood Pressure and Hardening of the Arteries." Admission is free to all lectures. The public is invited to "Mental therapeutics, or the power of the mind to heal disease, has been a neglected field in the medical world, the scientific world and the religious world," said Dr. Elliott. "Today it is a vital problem with the scientist, the physician and the clergyman. Mind has power over digestion of the food. It can turn wholesome food into poison, by stopping the flow of the digestive juices. Fear may bring the pallor of death to the cheek, and weakness, languor and fatigue to the whole body. Worry may destroy sleep, shatter nerves and deplete reason. Anger may poison nerve, muscle and brain cells, through the blood, until it will require from twenty-four to seventy-two hours to eliminate the poisons. There is both a grief and a joy that kills."

"Mind has power to produce disease, in perpetuating disease and cure disease. Mind can cure functional diseases, but not organic diseases. Man must know the power of the mind over the body in causing and curing disease. He must also know the limitation of the mind in healing."

DO THIS AFTER
SEVERE ILLNESS

How To Speedily Gain Strength and Put on Needed Weight

Nothing like the wonderful vitalizing vitamins extracted from the livers of the common codfish to help convalescing people to quickly get strong and well—everybody knows that.

So nowadays, medical men who keep up with times are ordering a tablet containing the vitamins that give to frail folks the strength and weight a tablet that is known as McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablet—and it surely has proved a blessing to thousands of people who have been sapped of their natural strength after a severe illness.

Skinny men and women take them to speedily put on plenty of good healthy solid flesh and for this purpose they are so extremely good that thin men and women often take on five pounds in 30 days. As a matter of fact, your druggist is authorized to return your money if you don't take on 5 pounds in 30 days.

Great for weak, skinny, backward, run-down children too, and gives them a hearty appetite.

Be sure and ask for McCoy's, the original and genuine Cod Liver Extract Tablet. Vancouver Drug Co., MacFarlane Drug Co., Owl Drug Co., and druggists everywhere have a big demand for them and millions are sold monthly all over North and South America. They are sugar coated and as easy to take as candy.

LUMBER MARKET
STRONG AS SALES
SURPASS CUT

Space For Atlantic From This Coast Sold Out For Two Months

Sales For Week Run 5,000,000 Over Production of Mills

Seattle, Aug. 9.—Prices of lumber in all divisions are firm, with an unusually heavy and sustained demand for the current market. Atlantic freighters are firm, at $15 for August and $13 for September, with space all sold out for this month and approximately cleaned up for September. There is much speculation in intercoastal space. California is forecast to advance a dollar next month, as transits, due to withdrawal of half the coastwise lumber fleet, are decreasing to the point of demand-supply. Rail shipments are heavy, the expected increase in wheat yield having stimulated a waning inquiry. Japanese freighters are unsettled and late August and September space is developing at $6c to $1 under the August market. Japan overbought heavily in June and July, and is scheduled to remain inactive for two months.

Association mills for the week cut 109,312,000 feet, sold 114,197,000 and shipped 110,990,000 feet. Origin of new business was 55,896,000 feet for rail account, 41,707,000 domestic and 10,214,000 foreign. Rail shipments were 56,070,000 feet. Origin of new business was 12,974,000. Unshipped rail orders on the books of the mills show 140,000,000 feet; domestic 175,320,000 feet, and foreign, 135,319,000 feet.

There is no demand for two-inch common for Atlantic shipment. Prices are firm, at $18 f.o.b., with cutting $19 and timbers $19 to $20. Strong new styles of home building in Southern California call for carpeting entire bedroom floors, which has substituted fir for hardwood flooring and increased the demand at the local mills.

The official report of the Pacific lumber inspection bureau issued today shows lumber sales to the North Atlantic for the first six months of the year at 1,038,367,000 feet, an increase over the same period in 1925 of 303,232,000 feet. California took 837,300,000 feet, an increase of 36,334,000 feet. Total export sales for that period were 925,362,000 feet, an increase of 243,872,000 feet. Japan bought 288,202,000 feet, an increase from 275,600,000 feet. All foreign buyers excepting the United Kingdom, the Continent and Mexico, increased their purchases. Australia bought 126,360,000; China, 102,818,000; and South America, 98,990,000 feet. The Philippines bought 216,000 feet, a decrease of 6,237,000 feet, the decrease coming in the demand from Hawaii. The Philippines bought 216,000 feet, a decrease of 6,237,000 feet, the decrease coming in the demand from Hawaii. The Philippines bought 216,000 feet, a decrease of 6,237,000 feet, the decrease coming in the demand from Hawaii.

Edward M. Corbett, formerly president of the American Export Lumber Company, White-Henry-Stuart Building, to-day joined the forces of the Southern Alberta Lumber Company as head of the newly created export lumber department, the first to hold the post. The Southern Alberta is probably the largest single intercoastal lumber shipping corporation on the West Coast, having shipped 375,000,000 feet last year, with an expected total for 1926 of 400,000,000 feet. This is its first venture into the export field, and Mr. Corbett is organizing the work. It will operate in both Japan and Australia. Mr. Corbett was for several years contracting freight agent for the Great Northern Railway in Seattle. About eight years ago he entered the offshore lumber trade, later heading the export department of J. H. Ives and Company. When that company closed its offices here he engaged in business for himself.

YOUR BABY and MINE
By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope forwarded to this office will bring a personal reply.

Mrs. C. G. S. writes: "I find your column very helpful in many ways and am asking your advice. My baby boy, weighing eight-and-one-quarter pounds at birth, now at eight months weighs nineteen pounds and has six teeth. He is very healthy and good-natured, but he does not sleep over four hours all during the day, though he sleeps all night. He isn't really ill but on hot days he is very irritable and has 'ruining off' of the bowels, which irritate him."

He is bottle fed and is very fond of water. Will all he want hurt him? I give him a prepared food with lime water, but I do not feed him on a time schedule. Would you suggest doing so?

I dress him in a cotton and wool shirt, diaper and romper suit, but he breaks out with the heat. Would it do any harm to leave his shirt off on hot days?

Answer: The baby is a fine weight, but I think he would be much better off on a simple milk formula now, instead of what you are feeding him. He can have all the water he wants to drink on hot days and when there is any trouble with the bowels it would be better to make the food much weaker. The lime water can be omitted. Also if he is being fed irregularly this would tend to make him cross and irritable because on just those days when he should be fed less, he is probably so cross that you give him even more feedings. You can see what a bad policy this would be.

Let him wear only the knitted band (sleeveless), diaper and thin slip and he should not suffer with the heat. He needs some protection over his abdomen but he doesn't need a long sleeved shirt, and especially one with wool in it. When there is a heat rash, reduce the amount of wool, and the number of clothes, always.

BLIND GUESTS AT GOVERNMENT HOUSE

Lieut.-Governor Host to Canadian Institute For Blind Saturday

Few of the many guests who have visited the beautiful gardens at Government House have derived more pleasure and enjoyment from it than did the sightless men and women who were there on Saturday afternoon. The occasion was the informal "at home" given by His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Miss MacKenzie to members of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

Among the blind guests were Mrs. J. A. Scott of Vancouver, who comes over every few weeks to teach basketry, typing, Braille and other reading methods; Mrs. W. H. Wood, Mrs. Archibald, E. A. Harvey, Thomas Liddard, G. W. Lilley, Bertram Mayell, F. C. Tenblytt, E. H. Vargo, A. Varney, A. White, Horace Woodfield, C. P. Cox, J. Combs.

The Bishop of Columbia and Mrs. Schofield, Mrs. W. Curtis Sampson, Mrs. A. E. Griffiths, Mrs. J. H. (Dimple), Mrs. Harold Fleming and Mrs. L. A. Genge, Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Sipprell, Dr. and Mrs. Scott Moncrieff, Mr. M. J. Keys, J. L. White of Vancouver, and Miss Geraldine Leatham, district secretary of the institute, were also present.

The institute has done a magnificent work in alleviating the lot of blind people by bringing into their lives the gospel of hope and encouragement, teaching them to acquire a measure of independence and making them in many cases self-supporting in spite of the handicap of their terrible affliction.

After being received by His Honor and Miss MacKenzie, the visitors were entertained at tea and then enjoyed a walk round the beautiful grounds.

BATHING ENSEMBLES
Crotona bathing suits have capes and parasols to match and are trimmed with bands of plain colored material to emphasize some leading color.

A miscellaneous shower was held at the home of Mrs. George Main, 3281 Cook Street on Friday evening in honor of Miss Dorothy Griffiths, whose marriage will take place shortly. The guests were presented in a gaily decorated wagon drawn in by little Elsie Baker, attired as a bride. The rooms were beautifully decorated with flowers, carrying out the color scheme in mauve and yellow. Those present were Miss Dorothy Griffiths, Mrs. Griffiths, Mrs. Sturges, Mrs. McLeod, Mrs. Snow, Mrs. A. Mayo, Mrs. Jeatt and the Misses Charlotte and May Thompson, Marion McLaughlin, Lily Macintosh, Lilian Brooks, Edna Baker, Lena Main and Isabelle Main.

On Saturday evening at "Bread-bane," the minister's residence, a quiet wedding took place when the Rev. Dr. Campbell officiated at a ceremony which made Miss Millicent Mary Mann the bride of Mr. Harold Taylor, both of Victoria. The bride, who was attended as bridesmaid by Miss Gladys Taylor, the bridegroom's sister, was very pretty in an embroidered crepe de chine gown and picture hat. The bridesmaid was handsome in a frock of light grey georgette and hat to match. The groomsmen were Mr. Harold Ferguson, on return from a honeymoon trip up the island, Mr. and Mrs. Taylor will make their home in this city.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Haynes entertained at a beach party on Saturday afternoon and evening at their Summer home, "Ardmore," for their guests Arthur and Stanley Haynes. The place was very prettily decorated with the tables, Zala's orchestra furnished the music to which the following guests danced: Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Tomalin, Major and Mrs. F. S. Engleau, Mr. and Mrs. George C. Weir, Vancouver; Mr. and Mrs. Oliver H. Bell, Miss Nancy Green, Miss Eileen McCauley, Miss M. Beckwith, Mrs. Muir, Mrs. A. Musgrave, Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Ford, Messrs. TRIM WITH BLACK
Black is used very effectively to trim light colored frocks. A bouffant skirt of rose taffeta with a ruffled model has a sash, tie and belt of black satin.

CLOTH FLOWERS
Practically every frock and coat these days has its floral adornment, not of the usual artificial type, but made of the material of the garment, whether it is wool or chiffon.

TUXEDO CUT COAT
A charming combination is that of a black velvet coat with a tuxedo front, with a white waistcoat embroidered in gold and a green kasha skirt with pleated sections on each hip.

NOT ALWAYS FUR
The white flannel coat of this season is not always collared with fur. Quite as frequently it is finished with bands of machine stitching.

CLOTH OF GOLD
An imported coat of black kasha is lined with cloth of gold and trimmed with stitching of very coarse black silk.

TRY ONE ON
The jacquette, with or without sleeves, is particularly liked this season in colorful velvets or in striped or solid linens. The linen is newer and therefore more interesting.

This smart new umbrella handle is of woven strips of dark brown and tan leather.

MENUS FOR THE FAMILY
By SISTER MARY

BREAKFAST—Stewed prunes, cereal, thin cream, crisp broiled bacon, toast, marmalade, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Lima beans in tomato sauce, whole wheat bread, floating island with red raspberries, milk, tea.

DINNER—Cold sliced roast beef, spiced currant jelly, rice croquettes, kohl rabi in cream sauce, fruit salad, cheese sticks, graham bread, milk, coffee.

The dinner menu planned is worth keeping in mind if you like to serve porch or garden meals. The cold sliced meat with its accompanying jelly, croquette and vegetable makes an attractive "mixed grill," or one plate dinner. And the salad does double duty as salad and dessert both.

MUCH EMBROIDERY
Embroidery was never more decorative than now, and never applied with such novelty or distinction. A sport dress of bois de rose crepe is given a diagonal band of embroidery in shades of gray, white and rose.

We Appreciate the Compliment and the Challenge

TODAY, Carnation is the world's leading brand of evaporated milk. We appreciate the compliment—and the challenge.

For such preference is a challenge to make Carnation Milk a finer and finer product, ever improving its goodness whenever opportunity offers.

It is because we have assumed this obligation that users of Carnation today find it more delicious and satisfying than ever before.

Carnation's creamy richness and uniformity makes everything prepared with it taste better. Used as cream, undiluted, it cuts your cream bill in three.

SCALLOPED POTATOES.—Six medium-sized potatoes, 1 1/2 tsp. salt, few grains pepper, 3 tbsp. butter, 1/2 cup Carnation Milk diluted with 1/2 cup water, 2 tsp. flour. Place diluted milk in a double boiler to scald. Pare, soak and slice potatoes in 1/4-inch slices. Place a layer in buttered baking dish, sprinkle with salt and pepper, dredge with flour, and dot over with bits of butter. Repeat and add the milk until it can be seen through the top layer. Bake in a 350° F. oven until the potatoes are soft. This serves six.

"God in Human Life"

A Sermon Delivered by Rev. Dr. Sippell in the Metropolitan Church.

INTRODUCTION

The Emperor Caesar took one hundred days to drive around the Roman Empire. One day last week two men stepped out of an aeroplane in New York City. They had been around the world and they had done it in less than thirty days. Truly, there are no foreign lands. Internationalism is the demand of the hour in any intelligent view we are to take of life on the planet. Anything insular provincial, or merely national, is out of harmony with the world-view of life which the new day of scientific advance has thrust upon us. And what is true of the race in this regard, is true of the individual. Economically, is true in the aspect of life we hold socially morally and spiritually. A religion, adequate to world needs, is a world religion. It can no longer be regarded as a thing of water-tight compartments in which a favored few secure themselves by "safety first" against the possible shipwreck of a world. Against such "safety first" and "sectarian" views of religion, there stands the new day of science, which makes a religion, worth while, possible to us "God so loved the world." The only adequate Gospel is one that announces a Christian era of peace, that stretches out a hand of help to every needy brother between the sunrises and sunsets of the world.

I am going to endeavor to show you how deeply embedded in this human life is the thought and operation of a Divine Being, and I could do that I think in a very direct and definite manner.

I could draw proper and logical conclusions with regard to such a fact from the words of an accepted divine revelation, from the experiences of past history in the lives of many "just men and women made perfect," from my own personal experience, and from much in your experiences. You are listening to me to-night, and I am quite sure that many of you would utter a hearty "Amen" to my affirmatives. But I know that there may be some here who are not prepared as many of you are to enter upon such a path-way so easily. They are not prepared to assume as much as we are prepared to assume. They have not had the particular kind of training you and I have had. I do not mean to infer for moment that ours has been a better training, perhaps it has not been so. I am only saying there has been a different training. They cannot look out on Nature and say with you and me, "The heavens declare." They cannot assume the fact of God, the fact of the revelation in the Bible, or the fact of God in human history, and I want to fully respect their position so far as it is honest and self-willed and so I proceed to eliminate all assumption and discuss first the question of the fact of God and the fact of Revelation, and then establish those things which shall see that if we can find evidence to satisfy us as to whether God is indifferent to our lives or whether He is endeavoring to give guidance to our lives.

Absolute Atheism does not exist. No man can say there is no God. I mean that no thoughtful man will say there cannot be a God anywhere. The only person that makes such an assertion is the fool. "The fool hath said, in his heart, there is no God," and he shows how foolish he is by saying that very thing because it is rank foolishness for any of us without finite intelligence to say about any existence it cannot be. But, on the other hand, man may say we cannot know God. That is the position of Agnosticism, and it stands in our intellectual processes over against Theism. You and I say, "We know in whom we have believed." "These things there are which we cannot know that there is a God. That is the position of Agnosticism. It does not say there is no God, it simply says it is impossible to know any God if there be one.

AGNOSTICISM
Now Agnosticism has no word of denial as to the realities of our present day experience. It only says that what is before us and what comes after us we cannot know. It is to say we cannot know about God or about a life to come. This life, of course, as we experience it we do know something about. It is so to speak a bridge that spans the chasm of time but we never can be sure what the bridge rests upon.

HERBERT SPENCER, THE APOSTLE OF AGNOSTICISM
He was an advocate of Biological Evolution. Now you have heard of Evolution. Let me show you how Spencer defines it. He was an Englishman and his definition is given to us in English and you all understand English, so listen to what he says Evolution is.

Evolution is a process of development which accounts for the existence of this world as we see it, and Spencer says about it the following: "It is a change from an indefinite, incoherent homogeneity to a definite, coherent heterogeneity, and continuous differentiations and integrations." Now I am sure you understand what Evolution is and how the world came to be, but now what about Agnosticism and God? Will Agnosticism say about the process of Evolution that it is brought about by "An Eternal Power, or creative force that makes for righteousness"? Now I say that is a good deal to say about the First Cause about which Agnosticism says we cannot know anything because it says:

1. There is a First Cause—Existence.
2. That it is a power or Causal Energy.
3. That it is omnipresent.
4. That it is Eternal.
5. That it is working for moral ends.

There you have much more than Agnosticism said you could not know anything; the declaration that the origin of Universe rests in an Existing First Cause, full of energy, eternal in duration, present everywhere and working for righteous purposes. I say that is a good deal to say about what we are supposed to say nothing.

Now let me go a step further. Science admits that the world is full of thought or design. But you cannot have thought without a thinker, design without a designer. And then, the thought, the design, the Universal Cause, full of energy, eternal in duration, present everywhere and working for righteous purposes, I say that is a good deal to say about what we are supposed to say nothing.

for righteousness. You cannot escape that conclusion and do rational thinking.

We know something of the character of God. Spinoza says, "To define God is to deny Him." From one point of view there is truth, for God is infinite and we are finite and if we were able to define God in terms of our finite understanding we would be bringing Him within the limits of our finite knowledge, and He would cease to be infinite. But, infinite space is still space. Infinite power is still power. Infinite goodness and knowledge are still goodness and knowledge.

Any quality is the same whether it is upon its infinite relations or suppose it to go on into infinite development. What is inconsistent with goodness here will be inconsistent with goodness everywhere. I can speak of the attributes of God as those of knowledge, power and goodness, and I do not deny God in so speaking.

I must pass on and I do so with but one reflection on Agnosticism. You may look to the thirty-two pages of the last chapter of the book, "An Infidel or Agnostic book holding its own among thoughtful men to-day. No thoughtful man goes to Strauss, or to Voltaire, or to Spinoza, or to Spencer for a religion to guide him in life or to comfort him in his dying hour.

Dr. Josiah Milne was one of England's greatest thinkers. His theory of a future life was a practical fatalism, denying the freedom of the human will. His system practically bowed God out of the moral life of man. His aged mother lived with him. She had been evangelized in her faith, but she was proud of her scholarly son and she accepted his theory of religion without God, but on her dying bed as Milne leaned above his mother he heard her say, "Liddle-Liddle gie me back my God."

REVELATION AND CHRISTIAN FAITH

There never has been a day when intellectual activity and scientific pursuit were as great as to-day. It is not a wonder, that recently a student in an American university proposed to substitute Science for Christianity. It showed an appreciation of the splendid results of scientific achievement, although it showed a sad lack of knowledge as to the philosophy of history. But ours is an age of intellect. From that first morning when God said, "Let there be light," and that Sabbath morning when His son said, "My Father's work is to do the will of the Father who sent me," there has never been a day when the fountain of the deep are being broken up and men are "proving" all things and trying to hold only that which is good.

What attitude is Christianity taking to all this intellectual activity? I say, in reply to this: Christianity is larger than this. Christianity is truth from every quarter for she follows the lead of Him who is the truth who says, "Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free." There is no freedom for the soul that shuts its eyes to truth, and so I repeat Christianity is sympathetic toward all truth and she will defend freedom in thought as well as in action.

Christianity welcomes thought, and we would be better Christians if we were better thinkers. If we thought more and said less we would be more like Him who was the world's greatest thinker. Do you want to know in what lands science has been free to do its greatest work, where art has been most developed, and commerce most enterprising and music most inspiring? You must go to the lands where Christ and Christianity have been best and fullest known.

Take the world thinkers in every realm of life, and where are they found? They have come from that delectable Christian land, the British Isles, and from the land of the Nile. Burn them to ashes but have you destroyed Christianity? Visit the libraries of Christian and heathen lands; that reflects the moral beauty of Christian teaching; destroy them all is Christianity destroyed? Is the Bible extinct? You must take out of art and painting and sculpture and music.

Yes, more. You must go to the baptismal registers and find the registers of the Christian world; turn over the leaves. Wherever you find a John, Matthew, Paul, strikes them out and read Caligula. Nero and other heathen names. Destroy your registers, are Christianity and the Bible gone? Is your work of destruction done? Not till you have destroyed the homes built for the widow and orphan and outcast, homes for the blind and halt and insane and diseased. Have you destroyed the Bible and the work of Christianity? Not yet!

Go to cemeteries of the Christian world. Take your hammer and chisel, and cut away what is written there on the tables of stone. "I am the resurrection and the life; work away with chisel and hammer, chip, chip—and then brush off the dust. Go from cemetery and cemetery and away all the words of immortality and hope. Is your work done? No; not yet! Set up your anvils again and forge new letters for the stone and crush out with heel of foot all words of tenderness and brotherly love and world peace, and succor for her weakness everywhere. . . . Can you do it?

Men and women, the light of electricity, of gas, of calcium, of the torch, of the talow dip—all are from the sun, and the light of love and hope and purity that is in us all from the sun of righteousness.

Christianity is not failing. It is according to victory. Christianity is gone up on high and all things are fast being put under Him. All painting and poetry and sculpture and architecture. All science, and economics or politics and world government. The Bible and Christianity never stood more secure than they stand to-day.

Let us not be afraid of Modernism if it seems to disturb our former religious beliefs. If it be of men it will come to naught; but if it be of God you cannot overthrow it.

Illustration—The Huguenots had a device which showed their conviction of the indestructibility of the truth of the scriptures. It was an anvil representing the Bible and men were pounding it with hammers and as their hammers broke others stood by with new hammers to try and break the anvil to pieces but they did not succeed and they never will, and so we can say to critics who seek to destroy the Truth of God in the scriptures, "Hammer away, ye hostile hands. Your hammers break God's anvil of His scriptures."

Illustration—When Roman conquerors returned from their triumphs they were accustomed to commemorate their victories by erecting a column in the Roman Forum.

What columns will stand in Heaven's forum to mark the victories of Heaven's King? Science will come to set up its column and Kepler and Galileo and Copernicus and Herschel will say as the column is set up "The heavens are the work of Thy hands; the moon and the stars which Thou hast ordained." And the world's geologists will come and set up their column and Miller and Dana and Dawson will bow before Him and say: "The first mother besides the second mother, the mother of the world's Redeemer, and there will be other women like Elizabeth Barrett Browning and Harriet Beecher Stowe and Florence Nightingale and multitudes of others—and a haze is seen in the Divine eyes for the first time, for His earliest mother presents to Him the fairest of all crowns. It seems enough but at that moment Handel, Beethoven and Mendelssohn march to the grandeur of the Halle-Chorus and amid the swelling music Christianity is offered the crown of universal dominion and heaven sings:

"All hail the power of Jesus name, Let angels prostrate fall, Bring forth the royal diadem, And crown Him Lord of All!"

ALBERTA CROP TO BE AVERAGE
Edmonton, Aug. 9.—The Government crop report says that generally speaking the wheat crop situation is fairly satisfactory, and now that the critical stage has been passed, the statement may be made with more or less assurance that there will be a good average crop, probably as large and possibly larger than last year. There can be no definite estimate, however, of the effect of the hot, dry weather until the separators are at work and the actual shrinkage which takes place becomes known. In the yields obtained. Throughout the most of the province the grain is believed to have stood the strain well, and especially in this case with that on summer fallow and breaking. The area of good crop is larger than last year, so that the present situation, which may be arrived at for the present is that the wheat yield will be well up to last year's total, if not exceeding it. In the areas which have suffered from a continual lack of moisture, however, notably the southwestern section, and the belt from Edmonton eastward and northeast, the crop will be very light and in certain parts of this territory some ten per cent. of the crop will not be cut, the rest of the yield from five bushels upward.

The oat and barley crop will be fairly light owing to the lack of moisture in the latter part of the growing season.

Parts of the province, however, report excellent stands of wheat. In the irrigated sections, good yields will be obtained. The leading fact this year is that while some districts which have had some good crops in the past are light, others which have experienced light crops during the past few years, have excellent prospects this year.

Harvesting of wheat has commenced in the south-east, and in one or two other parts of the province, including Peace River, where prospects are good. Cutting will not be general, however, in the province until next week.

Eagles Have it in Their Power to Decide Whether Travelers or Sons Win

Feathered Boys Meet the Travelers This Evening and Sons on Thursday

Although the Eagles occupy the bottom position in the Victoria Amateur Baseball League they have it within their power to say just who will reign supreme this season. They have three games left to play, two with the Sons of Canada and one with the Travelers.

To-night the Eagles shake their gloves at the Travelers and a win for them will give the Sons a chance to win the league. By taking their two remaining games, if the Travelers are successful to-night the Sons will have to win both their games in order to gain a tie with the Travelers. A playoff would then be necessary.

The Travelers intend to go all out to-night in order to subside the Eagles. They will put Jack Noble on the mound and it is likely that Johnny Kerr will do the flinging for the Eagles. At various times during the season the Eagles have done a handstand and stood the other clubs on their heads. They intend to do something interesting this evening.

THEN COME THE SONS

On Thursday night the Sons of Canada will be the opponents of the Eagles and once again they will have something to say about the ultimate champions. Should the Eagles lose to-night and save the bitter pill for the Sons on Thursday it will mean the end of the Sons' aspirations. They will be able to buy early seats for the playoff game here on August 28 between the local champions and one of the mainland teams.

Should the Sons have a chance of either tying the league up or winning outright after Thursday's game it will be necessary for the league to arrange a date for the protested game between the Sons of Canada and the Eagles. The Eagles have lost the last week but they were in playing an unopposed player and the Sons, of course, protested and won. This will not help the Sons any more, they must win on Thursday.

PROPHETS?

The Sons have it figured out that the Eagles will lose their three remaining games, and this will cause a tie for first place. Then a playoff will be necessary between the Sons and Travelers.

Time will tell how good these natives are as prophets.

B.C. Cricketers Set
Mark For Teams In Future To Shoot At

Feat of Winning Six Straight Games in Western Tourney Cannot Be Beaten

Edmonton, Aug. 9.—British Columbia not only walked away with the Dingwall Trophy and the Western Canada cricket championship in the tournament completed Saturday afternoon, but the representatives of that province set a mark for future tournament teams to shoot at by making a clean sweep of their games winning six and losing none for a total of twelve points. Manitoba, finishing up in second place, had six points for three wins and the same number of defeats; Saskatchewan was third with a pair of victories and four reverses, while Alberta's representatives, who were joint holders of the trophy and championship last year, were buried at the bottom of the heap with a lone victory in six starts.

There was no doubt about best team winning, British Columbia winning by wide margins. In every department—batting, bowling and fielding—they were far ahead of the other contenders.

Saturday against Alberta, the British Columbians turned in their sixth and last win over Alberta, by a score of 143 for five to 131. When the Sons last week but they were in playing an unopposed player and the Sons, of course, protested and won. This will not help the Sons any more, they must win on Thursday.

Time will tell how good these natives are as prophets.

Smashing Rally In Final Rounds Gains
Draw For Holiday

Watson of Portland Nearly
Had Vancouver Boy Out in Ninth; Lewis Loses

A smashing rally in the last two rounds, coupled with his aggressive nature through the entire fight, earned Harvey Holliday, Vancouver's promising young bantamweight, a well-deserved draw in his ten-round battle with Jimmy Watson, of Portland, at the Arena on Saturday night.

The bout proved to be a good one and provided plenty of excitement for the fair crowd of fans who attended.

Holliday, who is of the rugged baring-in type, found plenty of trouble in landing his blows on his dancing opponent, but he showed plenty of pluck and, although bleeding profusely during the last three rounds, he kept right on his toes and in the last frame he tried hard for a knock-out but the Portlander covered up well and the final bell rang with the fighters in a clinch.

When Holliday and Watson entered the ring the latter seemed to have a big advantage over the Vancouver lad in weight but, according to their official weights, there was only two pounds difference. Watson, a well-known couple of inches on Holliday in height.

TOO MUCH CLINCHING
Throughout the whole ten rounds Watson was inclined to clinch and at one stage the two fighters were so closely locked together it was impossible for Al Davies, the third man in the ring, to separate them. Watson proved himself adept at inflicting a heavy blow to the chin of his opponent. He staggered for about five seconds and the fans thought he was finished but he seemed to secure new life and before the round had finished he had given Watson plenty of trouble.

When the bell sounded for the final round Holliday rushed from his corner and landed a right to Watson's nose. For the whole round he kept Watson on his toes and if the American boy had not covered up well Holliday would have had a knockout.

In the semi-wind-up Dave Lewis, of Victoria, lost the judges' decision to Phil Bayes, of Portland. The fight was a close one, with both fighters battling close, and both of them, put on a fairly good scrap.

In the last two rounds Bayes was bleeding from a mouth a great deal but still kept after his man. Bayes got in several good punches at Neal's face and brought the first signs of blood.

During the last few minutes Bayes went hard to get the decision but the judges thought different and the referee held up Neal's hand who got the decision.

Albie Davies, of Victoria, and Sammy Jones, of England, went through fast rounds to a draw.

Swimming Records

Philadelphia, Aug. 9.—Two more world's records were broken to-day by mermads of the women's swimming association of New York in the final day's events of the women's national A.A.U. swimming championships in the Sequel-centennial lake pool.

Martha Norella, quarter-mile champion, using the crawl stroke, won the half-mile tilt in world's record time of 13:47, 1-5, or 11 seconds faster than Ethel McGarry's time in the 1925 championships at Detroit.

Agnes Geraghty, W.S.A. breast swimmer, won the 220 yards in 2:59 1-5, three and one-fifth seconds faster than her own mark established at Detroit last year.

There was plenty of heavy hitting in Saturday's matches in the Victoria and District Cricket League. One batsman, Munsey, of the Five C's, reached the century, not out, while Allen, of the Incogs, was nine runs short of that figure. There were two scores better than the half-century, while there were plenty of others in double figures.

The matches resulted in the two Cowichan teams gaining an even break, while the Five C's and the Incogs, both of which muster at Christ Church, walked off with handsome victories. A royal war came to a close with a flourish.

The scores were as follows:

Cowichan Wanderers, 189; Incogs, 125.
Five C's, 202 for four wickets; Harlequins, 131.
Two C's, 155; Cowichan, 135.

The Incogs were without the services of both Sparks and Wenman, who were at Edmonton putting up a great display for British Columbia in the Western Canada cricket tournament. Allen was the only batsman who could handle the Cowichan bowlers performed consistently with Leggett topping the score with 40.

SAVAGE HITTING
The Harlequins sprinkled a couple of good scores in with a lot of weak ones and were all out for 131. All-ones and twos were the best. The Five C's replied savagely with Munsey leading off with 100, not out, and Butterworth carrying his bat to 55. The two C's found their batting strength and Cox's 45, not out, and Edwards' 39 were their leading scores. Cowichan's total included a 54 by Croeland and a 55 by Gravett.

GERTRUDE EDERLE
CALLED NEPTUNE'S
FAVORED DAUGHTER

Boulogne, France, Aug. 9.—Gertrude Ederle, the American swimming marvel, was toasted by veteran fisher folk all along the Pas de Calais, over the week-end, as Neptune's favorite daughter, because of her victory over the treacherous English Channel.

Judging from the sheaves of congratulatory messages from all parts of the world, which continue to pour into Miss Ederle's quarters on Cap Gris Nez, it is evident that admirers of her exploits are of greater number than those interested in the most brilliant aerial exploits.

From the time the New York girl returned to the French coast on the tug which conveyed her across the channel on her gruelling swim, she has been the center of the world, which continues to pour into Miss Ederle's quarters on Cap Gris Nez, it is evident that admirers of her exploits are of greater number than those interested in the most brilliant aerial exploits.

Berlin, Aug. 9.—Gertrude Ederle's success in swimming the English Channel has been greeted with enthusiasm in Germany, especially in view of her German extraction. A royal welcome will await her when she visits her grandmother in Stuttgart.

Miss Ederle calls her feat "one of the greatest athletic achievements of all times," and applies the term prodigy to Miss Ederle.

Achtuhr Abendblatt says that Gertrude Ederle's success was a combination of transcendent ability and a well-deserved stroke of good luck helped achieve this masterpiece in the art of swimming.

The Lokal Anzeiger says: "Considering the American woman's relation to athletics, it was not surprising that a representative of this sex, under the flag of a German swimmer, should have achieved such a feat."

EMANCIPATION OF WOMEN
The sports editor of Zeitung Am Mittag hails her success as a new and conclusive proof of the athletic emancipation of the once weaker sex. He also says that Miss Ederle's modern style of the crawl stroke in distance swimming was vindicated by her achievement.

Two Long Shots And
A New Track Record
At Colwood Closing

Gilliflower and North Shore
Flash Home to Pay Fancy
Prices on Last Day

Poor Fuss Runs Like Scared
Cat and Sets Record For Six Furlongs

In a wild flurry of high prices, low prices and new track records the annual seven-day horse race meet at Colwood Park closed on Saturday. The long shots who rode home winners were Gilliflower, who assisted by Jockey Marshall shot past Lady Small in the stretch in the fourth race to pay $60.60, the second biggest price of the meet, and North Shore, who squeaked through in the third to pay a price of $23.90 on a two dollar straight ticket.

In the two preceding races to this, the first and second favorites had both ridden to victory.

IN RECORD TIME

Not the least outstanding of the feats performed was that of Poor Fuss who ridden like a whirlwind by D. Neal in the Colwood Park Handicap, the fifth race, tore off six furlongs in one minute, twelve and four-fifths seconds, constituting a new record time for the distance on the Colwood track. J. Chestman the owner of the horse was presented with a silver cup, a special prize for the winner of the race, in addition to the $300 purse.

In a wonderful driving finish, after trailing the field for five furlongs, Winters brought Ballyrean, the favorite, through on the rail from last place to first on the stretch and won the first race by a length and a half over Southern Gentleman.

Louvain and Morning Orb were in a class by themselves in the second race and were always separated from the rest of the field by a good three lengths.

BY A LENGTH
Spring a small opening while going up the stretch, Hay, upon North Shore in the third race, sent him hurtling into the gap and emerged from the field, the winner, winning by a length. North Shore was exceedingly well ridden, and it was only in the final dash that he managed to shoot out in front. Trotter, the fourth choice, came rapidly from behind and beat out Little Rose, the favorite for the place position. Little Rose got off to a very poor start, leaving the barrier last but came up with startling rapidity and was racing fast in an endeavor to overtake the leaders at the finish.

LIGHTNING PACE

It was a ride-riding by the young star Marshall, who rode Gilliflower in the fourth. This boy judged the pace to perfection, and got in behind Lady Small, ready to dash through on the rail going up the stretch and win by a length. Lady Small, the favorite, set a fast pace but could not stand off the finishing onslaught of the winner. Steptoe, the third horse, came from behind and was rapidly overtaking the leaders as they flashed by the wire.

Poor Fuss ran the race of her life in the fifth to take the lead entering the stretch and win by two lengths. Musher the choice ran last for three-quarters of the race, when he opened up with a terrific burst of speed and, shooting to the front, beat Moon Child to the place position by a neck. Moon Child, closed with a fast rush, getting the show decision over Crescent. Frank S. always figured as a four and one-half favorite, but he was up and six furlongs route entirely too much for him and quit cold entering the stretch, finishing last.

Calgary, Aug. 9.—Track records were established by Ann Grogan, Saxon, Jr., and Dumbfounder, while two others were equalled by Kinkana and Tuga, during the opening day's progress at the Chinook Jockey Club mile plant Saturday afternoon.

Favorite was used to the most attractive yet held.

Among the prominent dogs who will be on display is the show dog Sandy McNab, prize bull dog valued at $1,500—something like $30 a pound.

Besides the ordinary entries for the show the whippets who will be at the fair for the racing will be benched along with the other dogs. These speedy animals will prove of great interest, not only to dog-lovers but to the general public as well, who will have the experience of watching the whippets closely for the first time.

First race, purse $400, three years and up, five furlongs—Miss Fraudland, 1:17.5, $4.95, $4.45, won; Tootie, 1:22.0, $3.75, second; Crest, 1:23.0, $3.25.

Second race, purse $400, three years and up, five and a half furlongs—Ann Grogan, 1:25.5, $4.40, $4.00, won; Broncho Girl, $4.40, $4.00, second; Silent Partner, $4. Time, 1:07 1-5.

Third race, purse $400, three years and up, six furlongs—Kinkana, 1:13.0, $4.95, $4.45, won; Kinkana, $4.50, $4.00, second; ference. Only suicide could account for the death of Mr. Haddon, they believe. Upstairs in the main living room the preliminary preparation for the deed showed in the loaded shotgun and the spare cartridges for the Winchester rifle finally used in the double killing.

MURDER AND SUICIDE SHOCK OAK BAY

The bullet that killed Mrs. Haddon was fired in such a way that it could not have been self-inflicted, say the police, but on the contrary every indication led up to the visit of the husband to the room with the desperate intent of killing his wife.

Up in the second story bedroom, where the light was seen by neighbors early on Sunday morning the light had been turned off. A book lay open near the bed, as if the man had been reading when the obsession seized him.

YOUNG SON SURVIVES

Sole survivor of the ghastly tragedy is Philip Haddon Jr., eight-year-old son of the principals in the double tragedy. The boy was spending a holiday with friends at Deep Cove, during the summer vacation of the Lonsdale School at Shawinigan. Friends took care of the boy as soon as it was known he was orphaned by the shocking affair.

HAD BEEN WORRIED

In tracing the recent actions of Gerald P. Haddon the police have ascertained that he was troubled for some time past with worry on account of a relative, a sister, Miss G. Haddon, who for some time past has been in delicate health. Mr. Haddon placed his sister in a private nursing home in Victoria, and engaged a nurse to look after her. Then he began selling his personal securities to meet the expense entailed by the illness of his sister.

Secretary for the Dunwell Mines whistled and other mining companies. Mr. Haddon was a quietly spoken and popular man in business circles. Of late he had spoken to intimates about his sister and the cost of securing proper care for her in her delicate state of health.

In their home life Mr. and Mrs. Haddon were quiet and companionable, appearing to be much devoted to each other. Both were attached to the spaniel, which in consequence today the loss of his two well-loved masters.

CONSCIENTIOUS AND RELIABLE

As a matter of form only the companies with which Mr. Haddon was associated instituted an inquiry into their books. After the check-up completed, today, R. M. Stewart, head of the associated interests, made the following statement, which allays any suggestion of business worries: "The late Mr. Haddon was secretary of a number of our companies, rising from acting secretary to full charge some time ago. He had been associated with the firm for close on two years. In that time we found him reliable and conscientious. The books of the companies under his charge are absolutely in order."

INQUEST TO-MORROW

When the tragedy was reported to the police yesterday Dr. J. P. Walker, Oak Bay pathologist, was summoned by the police to the scene. He made an examination of the remains and waited for Dr. E. C. Hart, coroner, who later granted permission for the remains to be removed to the B.C. Funeral Company's premises, where an inquest will be held to-morrow at an hour to be named.

Attorney-General Manson has offered the assistance of the provincial police, and Chief Fry, the city police, to aid in checking up on the details of the ghastly double killing. Inspector T. W. S. Parsons and Detective John Rogers went over the ground yesterday with Chief Syme of Oak Bay, but the officers found little that could be done in the light of the facts as they appeared on the scene and the premises.

WAR SERVICE

The late Gerald Philip Haddon served with honor in the Royal Canadian Navy from the inception of the war and in post-war years did considerable service in Mediterranean waters in earlier days with the Royal Navy. Later he was attached to the Esquimalt naval station with the rank of lieutenant. Heut. Haddon was a commander, where his duties were with the Naval College. As a relic of his war service he complained frequently of severe headaches. He retired from the service at the close of the Naval College here in 1922.

Of a quiet and reserved disposition the late Mr. Haddon was popular with all whom he came in contact. Both in naval circles and in business he was widely known and respected, and word of the shocking tragedy came with double force to a large number of friends in this city. That financial troubles, if they figured in the strange tragedy, were imagined rather than real, is stated by those in close touch with the family, and who assure that there was little real need of apprehension on that score.

LARGE CROWD AT W. C. GAINES TRIAL

Evidence is Taken in Seattle About Killing of Sylvia Gaines

Seattle, Aug. 8.—After a rush of spectators that carried policemen off their feet, the trial of Wallace Gaines, charged with the murder of Sylvia Howard Gaines, twenty-two, his daughter, was resumed here today with the testimony of John A. Couden, fifteen years old, that he had seen an automobile like that of the defendant near the scene of the girl's death and at the same time.

Gaines was playing golf the evening of June 15 with other boys near the alder grove in which the body of Miss Gaines was found the next day. He sliced his ball and in recovering it passed 400 feet from the automobile, and then closer.

The witness related how Prosecutor E. H. Revin had placed Gaines' automobile in the same place as the one Couden had seen and how in the dusk and in that place Gaines' car looked exactly like the one the witness had seen the evening of the tragedy. He admitted that in full daylight the resemblance was less.

Deputy Sheriff Ajax and Sears testified Gaines was intoxicated after the death and called out to Will Merritt, a young friend of the defendant, to "not tell all you know" and to "keep your trap shut."

Gaines complained that Deputy Sheriff Johnson had taken a bottle of moonshine from him and said: "I wonder if Johnson will use that evidence against me."

Sears said that the afternoon after the death, when the body had been found, he and Gaines had repeatedly said, "I wish I was dead." He also had said, "I suppose you will accuse me," and "Someone hit my kid on the head."

The crowd seeking admission to the courtroom, where Judge Jones left but thirty-six seats for spectators, knocked down traffic with sign which had been brought in from street and placed in the corridor, and then went past four policemen and three bailiffs. The crowd, which filled a corridor, was stopped at the doors as Sheriff Starwick led reinforcements to the place.

REPORTS OF NEW PRINTING BUREAU HERE ARE DENIED

No Additions to Parliament Buildings Planned Now, Ministers State

Reports that the Government is about to start construction of a new building to house the King's Printer's Department were denied by members of the Cabinet today. No such scheme is contemplated at this time, it was stated.

While plans for providing extra accommodation for Government offices have been considered from time to time, no steps in this direction will be undertaken now, Ministers indicated.

Among other plans considered is one involving the construction of a new building for the printing bureau at the rear of the Parliament Buildings and on the southwest corner of Government and Superior Streets. There is no prospect of this building being erected now, however, even if the Government should decide to adopt this scheme of development.

The purpose of any new construction is to relieve congestion in the Mines and Finance department and to concentrate the present widely separated offices of those branches of the administration.

WEEK-END BRINGS EAL RELIEF IN B.C. FIRE MENACE

Calm Weather Enables Interior Rangers to Control Outbreaks Near Nelson

The week-end brought no new forest fire outbreaks of any size on the Coast and produced a definite improvement in the serious interior fire situation.

Telegrams received at forestry ranger headquarters today from various points have been battling with over 100 fires south of Nelson stated that the absence of wind in the last two days brought all fires at strategic points under control.

This improved condition has put all settlements out of danger from fire, it is believed. If the weather continues calm, rangers hope to get all fires under control soon.

While there is no sign of rain to relieve the situation anywhere, however, the weather is not so dry as it has been for some time and this is aiding fire crews greatly.

Coldstream Guards Played Before Crowd at Arena To-day; Final Concert To-night

In their scarlet and gold uniforms the members of His Majesty's Coldstream Guards made a brilliant note of color in the streets of the city this morning, and many of the citizens extended a personal note of welcome to the bandmen as they went around the city.

This personal welcome was augmented in more public fashion this afternoon when a big audience, including large numbers of children, gathered to see the band on its first appearance here at the arena.

In accordance with its practice throughout its Dominion tour, the band gave a programme of the lighter numbers at this afternoon's concert, such as could be understood by the children and the younger people, and the vociferous demand for encores proved the wisdom of the choice of selections.

Leut. E. G. Evans conducted, and the instant response to his baton showed the intimate understanding which exists between this aggregation of crack musicians and their leader. Throughout the programme the ensemble and individual playing was notable for its smoothness, color and tonal effect, and the band ably demonstrated its right to the title of the world's greatest military band.

This evening the Coldstream band will give their only concert in Victoria, and the big demand for tickets—seats that there will be a big audience at the arena to welcome this British military band. The concert will commence at 8.30 o'clock, and all patrons are requested to be in their seats before that hour. To-night's programme will be entirely different from that given this afternoon.

Blat was taken into custody by the police and was later released on bail of $5,000 to face a charge of manslaughter arising out of the fatality. An inquest will be held.

According to information supplied the police, Pelow was walking along the carriage way on Stride Avenue at the time of the accident. Cowther, on a permit granted by the police, was clearing his property abutting the avenue, using dynamite in the operation.

When Pelow was about 500 feet from the Cowther lot, the blast was set off—a huge piece of rock weighing about 100 pounds was hurled into the air and fell, striking Pelow on the forehead.

PREMIER RECEIVES AUTHORS AND TELLS TREND OF PIONEERS

Literary Visitors Display Keen Interest in Historical Records Here

Members of the Canadian Authors Association, now touring Canada, were welcomed to British Columbia by Premier Oliver at an informal luncheon ceremony in the Provincial Library today. As an early pioneer himself, the Premier introduced the literary visitors to the library's splendid collection of historical data relating to the early days of the Pacific Coast and in a brief speech told them some of his own experiences here when he came to British Columbia to settle as a young man.

The authors displayed intense interest in the many invaluable exhibits on view in the library. The Premier himself took evident delight in pointing out many of the chief items of the collection to the visitors and added to their interest by furnishing the official records with his personal recollections.

After seeing the library the visitors viewed the Indian historical collection in the Provincial Museum.

LIFE PRESIDENT SEES BUSINESS RISING LIKE TIDE

More Money to be Loaned For Building on Coast, W. B. Taylor Announces

The business improvement on the Coast and throughout the West is reflected in the satisfactory condition of mortgages, according to W. B. Taylor, of Toronto, president of the $137,000,000 North American Life Insurance Company. The company arrived here yesterday on one of its annual western trips and to confer with J. W. Hudson, Victoria and Island manager, on business conditions here.

"The improvement in business all across Canada is gradual and steady like the rising of a tide," Mr. Taylor said today.

"Victoria looks better this year than last, judging from the appearance of the stores and the streets, both of which are so neat and clean. This improvement is common to all the West, partly as a result of last year's big crop and the fact that we are getting well past the war depression. Last year I noted signs of activity everywhere that are showing real business life in the West on a sound basis, and merchants are not overstocked."

"So satisfactory is the improvement in mortgage conditions and the outlook on this coast, that we are extending our mortgage business through our Vancouver office, which has charge of our investments, and will now include smaller residences. Our policy is to do our share in encouraging building, and we are encouraging business in the cities and districts from which we draw our business. We are trying to loan out our money where the money comes from. That is our idea of service."

Mr. Taylor said that the growth of export trade on this coast—judging from the few years' past—meant big things for its future and predicted the increase of light manufacturing of goods that are now brought from other parts of Canada.

Mr. Taylor declared that the ambition of life insurance companies was to keep people alive and well to enjoy the fruits of their labor. Life has joined with others in financing and pushing a great anti-tuberculosis campaign in the Maritime Provinces.

He also said that property in many western communities would be better protected from an investment point of view if the Dominion Government taxation were borne by the improvements so that the land would not be so heavily burdened. He asserted that this would be a great benefit to the home-owner of small means.

Mrs. Taylor and her daughter are here with the president. From Victoria they go to-night to Jasper Park to open the Nalaco Hundred Thousand Club convention next Monday. Mr. Hudson will go from there to Kelowna, British Columbia, which will be attended by the biggest business writers of the company from all Canada west of the Great Lakes.

WILL PREACH CANADA ON HIS RETURN HOME, LEUT. EVANS STATES

Director of Coldstream Guards Band Tells Gyro Club of His Impressions

Enthusiasm and Appreciation of Canadians Has Made Band Play Better

Leut. Robert G. Evans, director of the Coldstream Guards Band, is going back to England as a missionary to preach Canada to his fellow-countrymen. He made this announcement at the luncheon of the Gyro Club today at which he was the guest of honor.

Leut. Evans is the second prominent Englishman to make such an announcement before the Gyro Club within the last month. At a luncheon given to the English footballers, Arthur Kingzett, manager of the team, signed on as a missionary for service in the Old Land.

Leut. Evans was impressed with the unbounded opportunities for young men from the British Isles in this country. The spirit of country has taken hold of the bandmen and the director made this announcement to the best musicians. The Guards bands take on musicians after they have been twelve years in the other military bands. If we could hold before musicians the opportunity of a three months' trip to Canada it would be an added incentive towards gaining better men."

"The fine feeling between man and man was a revelation to Leut. Evans, and he had no doubt that any man from the British Isles would find happiness, freedom and generosity in Canada."

Leut. Evans is going to advocate that a Guards band be sent to Canada each year.

"This would not only be a great thing in cementing the ties between the Motherland and Canada but it would in return be a splendid thing for the bands themselves," declared the speaker. "It would enable us to get the best musicians. The Guards bands take on musicians after they have been twelve years in the other military bands. If we could hold before musicians the opportunity of a three months' trip to Canada it would be an added incentive towards gaining better men."

TREATED SPLENDIDLY

Leut. Evans was loud in his praise of the treatment accorded the band since its arrival in Canada.

"Everywhere we have been treated splendidly and the people, in their desire to see that we were well cared for, would not leave us alone day or night," commented the director.

The speaker was extremely pleased with the financial side of the trip. At the exhibitions where the band had played the receipts this year had been double what they were the previous year.

Leut. Evans also had a beautiful bouquet for Victoria.

"Everywhere on our way across the Dominion we were reminded of 'Wait till you get to Victoria,'" stated the director. "Now we have seen it we concur in everything that has been said and feel that the really must be a heaven in which to live."

Alderman Jack Mara extended a civic welcome to Leut. Evans and his bandmen and President J. M. Mair spoke with pleasure of the honor of having so gifted a musician in attendance at the luncheon.

GYROS TO HAVE FUN

The Gyro Club will hold a bonfire and dance at Cordova Bay on Wednesday night. A huge fire will be built in front of Mayor Pender's Summer residence and afterwards dancing will be enjoyed at McMorran's.

Mrs. Bechdel, forty-two, was found dead in his room, and a coroner's autopsy revealed the cause was wood alcohol poisoning.

ROMANCE OF SPANISH MAIN GIVES FAIRBANKS VEHICLE

"The Black Pirate" is Dominion Theatre's Feature Presentation This Week; Is Colorful Drama Full of Exciting Adventure of Days of Pirate Menace.

Douglas Fairbanks opens at the Dominion Theatre to-day in "The Black Pirate."

This picture, a new Fairbanks super-production, is laid in that part of the southern seas known in the Seventeenth century as the Pirate's Main, where Morgan and his blood-thirsty rovers had their secret island, on which they hid the tribute exacted at gun's points from traders and travelers. It is said that Fairbanks has never before had such a fitting vehicle for his blithe sort of adventuring. He plays the part of a young nobleman, who swears to avenge the killing of his father by pirates. This he does in a series of exciting episodes, that demand every known variety of duelling, fighting, and daredevil cleverness. He captures a big ship single-handed, steals the heroine from the villains, and fights his way through the ranks of the cut-throats.

"The Black Pirate" is rated the fastest moving story Fairbanks ever made, and this is a promise of considerable speed. Starting with the blowing up of a ship and maintaining an explosive tempo throughout, this picture should afford all the interest and suspense forecast for it.

Fairbanks' production is the first picture of such magnitude to be made in color, and marks an entirely new departure in this regard through its elimination of all glaring hues. It is claimed that he has succeeded in incorporating color into this film in such a bewitching fashion that the spectator is completely charmed by it, and sees it only as one sees a panorama in real life.

The star's leading lady is the beautiful Billie Dove, who and Tempe Pigott as a duenna make up the entire feminine contingent. Donald Crisp, famous as an actor and director, has an interesting Scottish character part. Sam de Grasse, Anders Randolph, Charles Belcher, Roy Coulson, John Wallace and Charles Stevens complete a cast that in type and ability are well fitted for their picturesque roles. The film was directed by Albert Parker, to whom much credit is given for the handling of the many gripping situations of Fairbanks' most pretentious picture, which has been hailed by tremendous patronage during its New York and London premiere engagements.

Strange Fiction of Conan Doyle Basis of Picture

"The Lost World" to Show at Columbia is Strangest of Stories

Rip Van Winkle's famous beauty nap wasn't even a wink of sleep compared to the snooze that Old Dad Time treats himself to in "The Lost World," which comes to the Columbia Theatre to-day.

In this Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's story, produced by First National and Watterson R. Rothacker, Father Time breaks every sleeping record in all literature—or screenature. He snores away for 10,000,000 years. In other words, in a certain spot in the wilds of South America life remains stationary for 100,000 centuries.

A party of screen adventurers, including Bessie Love, Wallace Beery, Lewis Stone and Lloyd Hughes, discover this land that Time forgot. They find strange and fearsome prehistoric dinosaurs of the Reptilian Age still alive—looking for fresh meat.

Miss Love is almost caught by one. But Messrs. Stone, Beery and Hughes rescue her just in time, and it is on these scenes that the tense love theme of the picture hinges.

Film magazines herald this picture as one of the sensations of motion picture history. One magazine goes so far as to say "The greatest film yet made."

"Stop Thief" is Stage Success At the Coliseum

Ed. Redmond Presents Percy Hutchinson's Success in its Entirety

This week the Coliseum management is presenting under Ed. Redmond's directorship the Percy Hutchinson stage success, "Stop Thief" with an enlarged cast and a complete rendition of the original script under the expert direction of Ed. Redmond.

Victoria theatre goers will have an opportunity of witnessing this wonderful stage success in its entirety. The story concerns the ups and downs of Jack Doogan (Geo. O. Olsen), crook and pseudo-detective and his sweetheart Nell (Ruth Hamilton). Nell is employed as maid in the home of Professor Carr (Ed. Redmond) whose daughter, Joan, is shortly to be married.

Wedding gifts are all on display, guests assembling, pseudo-house-detective arrives in the person of Jack Doogan. Inventory is made and the fun commences. The Professor, many years previously, had kleptomaniac tendencies and this starts a long maze of complications and suspicions involving father, bridegroom, bride and almost every member of the wedding party. The real culprit, Doogan and his sweetheart are, of course, above suspicion. The play reaches a climax in the ultimate arrest of the crooks, but they furnish such a satisfactory excuse for their conduct, that the curtain falls on a wedding scene not of one couple but of three.

In addition to the above mentioned players, the cast includes, amongst others, Violet Taylor as Mrs. Carr, Eileen Allwood, as Joan, Beth Allan as Caroline, Gertrude Hurton as Madge, daughters of the Professor. Jack Cassidy takes the part of James Cluny, Gordon Nelson as Dr. Willoughby, a friend of the family. Frank Allwood as sergeant of police, who is not above suspicion in this wonderful farce, finds on presenting his search warrant, that it is merely an inventory of wedding gifts.

Cleveland Choir Wins in Wales

Swansea, Wales, Aug. 9.—The Cleveland Orpheus Male Choir won the prize Saturday in the chief male choir competition, which brought the Welsh National Eisteddfod to a close. An audience of 20,000 attended. The winners scored 279 points against the 245 of the Downside Choir, which won second place. Ramsay MacDonald, former British Premier, made a speech congratulating the winners. Ten other choirs competed, nine Welsh and one English.

CHARGE FOLLOWS FIGHT

Saskatoon, Aug. 9.—William George Mandon, sixty, Waterfield farmer, was brought to a hospital here in an unconscious condition, and his hired man, C. Bishop, was held by provincial police as the result of a fracas between the two men on the former's farm Sunday. Bishop told the police his employer attacked him while they were working in a field and that he struck Mandon with a hoe in self-defence.

Barthelmess is Polo Star When Film is Screened

Two Players Ride Into Reckless Collision to Give Scene Reality

In "Just Suppose," a coming First National Picture starring Richard Barthelmess, there are said to be some of the finest polo scenes which have ever been filmed. Dick is the Prince of Koronia, who comes to America on a diplomatic tour and partakes, as Prince do, of some polo at the private field of a wealthy American.

These scenes were "shot" at the private polo field of Thomas Hitchcock at Westbury, L. I., where Thomas Hitchcock Jr., of International polo fame practices. A real game of expert society polo players was staged with cameras surrounding the field on all sides.

The action requires a fall and the players proceeded in giving the cameramen a good one. Two players rode their ponies together with reckless abandon and narrowly escaped with their lives.

Showing all week at the Playhouse.

AUTHORS WENT TO TOP OF MOUNTAIN

Visiting Members of Canadian Association Had Unusual Experience Near Vancouver

Vancouver, Aug. 9.—One of the outstanding experiences of the members of the Canadian Authors' Association, whose annual meeting was held here last week, was their visit to the top of Grouse Mountain, whither they were taken over the new highway and entertained as the guests of the new highway company. It was the first function of the kind ever held on the top of Grouse Mountain, and the arrangements were very effectively carried out, the numerous visitors being taken to within a mile and a half of their destination by automobile and walking.

the rest of the way, as the surfacing of the road is not quite completed.

DRAMATIC TALE OF BRITISH SECRET SERVICE AT CAPITOL

Ben Lyon is Leading Figure in Gripping Film Portraying Adventurous Career of Link in Great Chain of England's Spy System During Great War.

"The Great Deception," announced as the attraction at the Capitol Theatre, is a vivid movie story dealing with spectacularly dramatic events of the late World War. It claims kinship with such immensely successful stage plays as "What Price Glory?" and photoplays like "The New Commandment" and "The Big Parade."

The story was first told in novel form by George Gibbs, well known author. Mr. Gibbs titled his story "The Yellow Dove."

On the screen the virile characters which Mr. Gibbs devised are portrayed by Allen, Ben Lyon, Sam Hardy, Basil Rathbone, Charlotte Walker, Amelia Summerville, Hubert Wilke, Marco Gonzales, Lucian Prival and others. The direction is by Howard Higgin.

In "The Great Deception," Ben Lyon plays the role of a British Secret Service emissary who comes into conflict with German spies. One of the most exciting scenes in the picture shows Allen Pringle plotting an aeroplane in which Ben Lyon is wounded.

A special sham-air raid was made over New York city with the aid of the anti-aircraft unit of the army base there for this picture. It is a First National release.

Constructive Psychology Applied

Contributed

If we have not got health, wealth and love, it is time to re-educate our subconscious mind, for as a man thinks in his heart (in his subconscious mind) so he is. It is known that what we think, we get. If we want what we think, let us get it. Everything we think in our heart has got there by suggestion, the subconscious mind does not reason, it acts. The stronger the emotion, the feeling we had at the time of the suggestion, the deeper it is embedded in it, the surer it will react.

It is the business of the conscious mind to only allow itself to think, to dwell on the things it wants brought into being. "What?" you say, "can we think real things into our lives?" We are doing that all the time. Call to mind a beautiful building, wonderful as it may seem, the first man on the job was the man with the suggestion. Yes, the first tool used was thought. It was built in thought before it could ever be put into blueprint, and so it is with the building of our lives. Everything in and on that building had to be built in thought first, every little detail.

The architect had to have his plan perfect before anyone else could work or bring to pass anything in the so-called real or outer manifest. His thought was the subtle power that caused the building to assume the form it did. Everything in the result of thought. Sit down and consider the truth of this statement, and ask yourself the question: "Do I spend my time in thinking and talking about the things I desire for myself, giving all my attention to things I do not want?"

"Mind is the master power that moulds and makes."

And man is mind, and ever more he takes the tool of thought, and, shaping what he wills, brings forth a thousand joys, a thousand ills; He thinks in secret, and it comes to pass, Environment is but his looking glass."

Potato Growers Hold Field Day

For the last few years the farmers growing potatoes in the Victoria district have been confronted with certain problems. Realizing the necessity for some experimental work on this crop, the Victoria Potato Growers' Association, in conjunction with the Dominion Experimental Farm, Sidney, B.C., planned an experiment with the view of:

1. Determining the most suitable varieties to grow in the district.
2. The best treatment of seed before planting.
3. The relative values of using whole and cut seed.
4. The value of using commercial fertilizer.

In order to get the most complete results, these experiments were conducted on farms that were totally unlike with regard to soil conditions. The growers were as follows: G. T. Michell, Sidney, B.C.; W. D. Michell, Keating; T. Somers, Gordon Head; Field Bros., Metehosin, and George Ball, Rocky Point.

On account of different conditions prevailing on these farms at the time of planting and after the results of the experiments were varied. Again the final results will not be known until the crop has been harvested and definite information cannot be given out until the experiment has been carried on over a period of years. However, in order that the educational value of this work be brought home to all the growers a field day was organized which took place on Friday, August 6. There was a good turnout of all those interested. The plots on all five farms were visited. The problems that have been confusing different growers were studied and some of them solved. The satisfaction of all concerned.

Dr. S. T. Pope Died In San Francisco

San Francisco, Aug. 9.—Dr. Saxton T. Pope, noted scientist and educator and internationally known for his hunting experiences with bow and arrow, died of pneumonia here Sunday after an illness of nine days.

Dr. Pope was fifty years old. He was a member of the faculty of the University of California, and editor of The California State Medical Journal.

Ten Victims of Big Wave on Lake Erie Shore Near Buffalo

New York, Aug. 9.—Thirty-five drownings, including ten at Brant Beach and Farnham, near Buffalo, N.Y., where scores of bathers were suddenly swept out into Lake Erie by the undertow from a huge swell Sunday evening, eleven in New England and fourteen in the vicinity of New York, were reported in dispatches received here over the week-end.

Five others who had been reported missing in the Buffalo tidal disaster were located.

Those who lost their lives there were Elmer and Yvette Henry of Kenmore, John Augustine of Buffalo, Heine Carstens and Hilda and Howard Timmerman of Farnham, brother and sister, Anna, daughter of Silver Creek and Glenna and Gladys Bronson of Brant, sisters; and Anna Hartman of Buffalo.

The suddenness of the incoming waves and the rush of the receding water caught up the bathers and carried them out into deep water almost before they realized what was happening. Many of them could not swim.

There were numerous heroic rescues and at least one of the bathers, Heine Carstens, lost his life in an effort to save others. He was seen bringing one girl ashore and swimming out into the lake again.

Two CHILDREN DROWNED

Most of the New England accidents occurred at resorts within a fifty-mile radius of Boston, while one of the most tragic was at Monhegan Island, Maine, where a great wave engulfed six children, drowning two of them.

Edward Vaughan, fifteen, of Southbridge, Mass., perished there while

Patenaude Speaks of His Principles

Montreal, Aug. 9.—In announcing his decision to contest the constituency of Jacques Cartier in the coming Federal election, Hon. E. L. Patenaude, Minister of Justice, explained his position before a Conservative rally here last night.

"I had occasion to differ with leaders of the Government and leaders of the party," said Mr. Patenaude, "and each time I felt it to be in the interests of the Province and country I did not fear to say so or fear the consequences. I said last Fall that I was free of men, but not free of principles and convictions. It was under these conditions I was asked to enter a Government being formed, and I entered with my opinions and my convictions. When my opinions and convictions are contrary to those with whom I am associated, I hope Providence will not deny me the force to leave, as I have done before."

Mr. Patenaude stated that in 1917, when he left the Borden Government, he did so in a letter of resignation which expressed the hope that when the storms of the time had blown away over the world and in Canada it would be the duty of all Canadians to renew the lines which had for the time been broken.

THESE WOMEN

By MALCOLM DUART

(Copyrighted)

The names and situations in this story are fictitious.

"You have seen Audrey grow up here, next door to you," he said, quietly. "You have always known her as a sweet and innocent and affectionate girl. She is sweet and innocent and affectionate now. She has been very ill—because I have deprived her of so many of the things that belong to normal girlhood. I know that now, and the knowledge has almost broken me."

"In your self-righteousness, you have set yourself to judge her because she brought a group of chorus girls to our house."

He moved closer to them, and bent forward, his steady gaze moving from one pair of staring eyes to the other.

"Do your shriveled hearts realize that chorus girls are just girls? That they are young, and seeking happiness? That all they did here was to relax from their hard life, and eat food that was better than the fare they are accustomed to? That they frolicked around—as your own daughters would frolic—as the devil had given you daughters?"

He paused. The woman took her husband's arm, as if for protection. "You have no right to insult us!" she said.

Morton shook his head, slowly. "Madam, I am here in defence of Audrey. You have hurt her, mentally—contemptibly. For myself, it is a matter of no concern whether you desire my acquaintance or not. I do not care whether you are alive or not. But you shall hurt a weak and nervous girl without hearing something in return—when that girl is dependent upon me."

The man cleared his throat. "You brought a notorious woman to this town, and associated with her publicly around the streets," he said. Morton unfolded his arms, and swept his hand toward a settee that stood against the wall.

"Get down there!" he commanded. They hesitated, and then, glancing at one another, obeyed. Morton, in two steps, stood before them.

"And how do you know that she was a notorious woman?" His voice had not varied from its even cadence.

"Why," the man began, looking at his wife, "everybody knew she was a notorious woman."

"Who's everybody?" he asked. "The people here in town," said the other, defensively. "She showed it by the way she looked."

"You are right," Henry, his wife said, pursing her mouth, but looking apprehensively at Morton.

The lady in question, said Morton, "happens to be one of the great artists of Seattle. Her picture has been in all the illustrated newspapers, in the last few weeks. She is my friend, and she was my guest. Who gave you the privilege of censoring my acquaintances?"

He waited, but they did not reply. He went on. "You, he elected yourself to sit in judgment on a young woman whom you do not know, and whom you do not even ministered punishment to a sick girl, for faults that exist only in your own mind. Who chose you to judge?"

Reaching back, he drew a chair to him, and sat down, so his eyes would be on the level with theirs.

CHAPTER XVI

In a few minutes Morton returned, laughing, with a great heap of flowers in his arm.

"Come out here a minute, Parriah," he called into the study door, as he passed.

Parriah followed him, as he went to the porch, and dropped the huge bouquet into Audrey's lap.

"Message of sorrow from the folks next door!" he said.

With an exclamation, Parriah stooped down and swept the flowers from Audrey's lap. "Such confounded impertinence!" he cried.

"My flowers!" gasped Audrey. Morton rescued the peace offering from Parriah, as the latter held it over the porch-rail. Returning it to Audrey's lap, he said:

"Lesson number two in the art of living," he said to Parriah, still laughing. "When your enemy offers apology, accept it gracefully."

Parriah leaned back against the rail.

"They insulted Miss Morton," he said. "I don't see how a bunch of roses can make amends for that."

Audrey held the fragrant flowers to her bosom, wrapping her arms around them as if she were holding a child.

"Parriah," Morton said, "did you ever make a fat-headed mistake in your life?"

She gazed sheepishly. "You know I have!"

Morton shrugged his shoulders. "Then you can answer your question yourself," he turned, and went into the house.

Parriah picked up one of the flowers that had fallen to the floor.

"What we ought to do something to let them know that we've forgiven them," he said.

She looked up at him mischievously. "Did they refuse to speak to you, too?"

Parriah blushed painfully. Then he joined in her laugh.

"It was a personal matter with me," he acknowledged.

He stood considering a moment. Then he went down the steps, across the lawn, vaulted a hedge, and—she saw him ring the bell of the house next door. He disappeared inside.

When he came back, he was smiling.

"What on earth did you do over there?" she asked.

"I presented Miss Morton's compliments," he said, "and Mr. Morton's compliments, and thanked them very cordially for the flowers, and said that you and Mr. Morton hoped that they would call as soon as you were able to be around."

The man cleared his throat. "You brought a notorious woman to this town, and associated with her publicly around the streets," he said. Morton unfolded his arms, and swept his hand toward a settee that stood against the wall.

"Get down there!" he commanded. They hesitated, and then, glancing at one another, obeyed. Morton, in two steps, stood before them.

"And how do you know that she was a notorious woman?" His voice had not varied from its even cadence.

"Why," the man began, looking at his wife, "everybody knew she was a notorious woman."

"Who's everybody?" he asked. "The people here in town," said the other, defensively. "She showed it by the way she looked."

"You are right," Henry, his wife said, pursing her mouth, but looking apprehensively at Morton.

The lady in question, said Morton, "happens to be one of the great artists of Seattle. Her picture has been in all the illustrated newspapers, in the last few weeks. She is my friend, and she was my guest. Who gave you the privilege of censoring my acquaintances?"

He waited, but they did not reply. He went on. "You, he elected yourself to sit in judgment on a young woman whom you do not know, and whom you do not even ministered punishment to a sick girl, for faults that exist only in your own mind. Who chose you to judge?"

night, when he came home, he would always swing me to his shoulder, and dance off across the hills pretending he was my horse! Sometimes he would take me on his pony, and we would go for long rides before dark.

"John, daddy has simply killed my life! I never had a thought that he didn't sympathize with—until recently, anyway. He never forbade me to do anything, in this world! When I was naughty, he would look so grieved, and he would take me on his knee, and talk to me tenderly, until I cried. Then I wouldn't be naughty again for a long, long while."

Parriah reached up, and took both her hands in his, resting his head against her arm.

"He sent me away to boarding school two or three winters. He said I ought to have the company of young people. But I sent him a telegram every night, and wrote him a long letter before I went to bed."

"He would come to the school every Friday night, and stay until Monday morning. We spent the whole time going places, and laughing, and playing."

She brooded for a little time. "You know that women always have a love with him. I think it's because he is so indifferent. Women are that way."

Parriah smiled. "I guess I went at my love making by the wrong method," he ventured.

She gave him a pat, and went on. "I know he never cared anything about them. He never really cared for anyone but me. And oh, John!"

She bent down to look into his face. "John, do you know that daddy was a terribly lonely man? He sees so much of people, and goes so many places, but I don't believe there is anything really in his heart but me!"

She touched her eyes again with her handkerchief. "He needs me, John dear! And I love him so much."

that I would surrender all the rest of my life to making him happy. Suppose I married you, and he went on into old age, always alone!"

She was crying in earnest now. Parriah got up, and sat on the arm of her chair, his hand on her shoulder. Passerby cast curious, grinning glances at them, but neither of them was aware of the rest of the world.

"He could live with us," he urged. "I like him too, Audrey dear."

Then he added, as in afterthought. "Nona loves him," he said. "I know he likes Nona. Don't you think they could get married?" He spoke hopefully.

Audrey leaned against him. "I've begun to love Nona," she said. "Maybe—maybe it will come out that way."

Holding one of his hands tightly between hers, she concluded: "John, if daddy will marry me, I'll never marry you. If he won't, I'll see."

She began throwing back the coverlet from her knees. He assisted her to arise, and helped her into the house. The nurse came down stairs, and slowly, the girl mounted to her own room.

"She's tired out," he reported to Morton, going into the study.

The older man looked up. "I should think so—you two have been chattering out there like a political convention."

"Could you hear any of it?" Parriah asked, anxiously.

"A little of it," Morton said. "I went to the door, but I judged I'd better retire."

He had been writing, in his close, quiet room, on a large sheet of paper. He passed this paper over to Parriah.

"Here's the outline of a proposition I'm going to make you, Parriah."

The young man looked over the writing.

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggily's Shower Bath

Copyright, 1926, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.
By HOWARD R. GARIS

"There is only one thing we need now," said Uncle Wiggily one morning to Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy as he and the muskrat lady housekeeper stood on the shore of the duck pond ocean.

"What is that?" asked Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy.

"A shower bath," answered the rabbit gentleman. "Always at seashore beaches they have shower baths, as you can wash the salt water off when you come out. I must make me a shower bath."

"But this isn't a real ocean," laughed Nurse Jane. "So why bother about a real shower bath? Put up a make-believe one."

"That isn't my way," said Mr. Longears. "I want a shower that will splash real water down on me and tickle me under my chin. And I will find some way to make it."

True enough it was that the ocean where Uncle Wiggily bathed wasn't a real one. He had put several bags of salt in the duck pond to make the water like that of the sea. He had hired Mr. Mucker, the old mud turtle gentleman, to bob up and down with his big, shelly back in the middle of the pond to make waves. Thus the duck pond became an ocean.

But, as Uncle Wiggily said, there was no shower bath such as you can find at real seashore beaches, say in Balm Beach, or Raspberry Cove, or Mamie Almie.

"I must make a shower bath," said the rabbit gentleman to himself as he hopped off for a visit to the woods where he thought he might get an idea of how to make what he wanted. Twinkling his pink nose, the rabbit gentleman hopped this way and that way and the other way until, all of a sudden, he felt some drops of water falling on him from above.

"Rain!" cried Uncle Wiggily, stopping his nose twinkles, and looking up at the sky. "And I didn't bring my umbrella. It surely is raining!"

But he noticed that when he stepped out from beneath the branches of a large tree the water drops no longer fell on him.

"This is queer," he said. "It rains under the tree but not out in the open. I wonder why that is?" Then he felt more water falling on him as he again hopped beneath the tree, and a voice called:

"Oh, Uncle Wiggily, did I wet you with my shower bath?"

"What's that?" cried the bunny gentleman. "Did I hear you say shower bath? Why I have been trying all morning to think of a way to make a shower bath at my duck pond ocean seashore beach, and here you say you have one. What is it? How is it? How did you make it?"

He looked up into the tree and some water splashed into his right eye. But out of his left eye, into which no water splashed, Uncle Wiggily saw Mrs. Robin, the bird lady, with a sprinkling can in her claw, spraying water on a box of red geranium flowers that set on her window ledge.

"Oh, is that your shower bath?" asked the bunny.

"Well, it is a shower bath for my flowers," said Mrs. Robin. "I fill the can with water every morning and shower the flowers. Sometimes water falls over the edge of the box and down to the ground. I think I must have wet you that way just now."

"You did, but I am glad of it!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. "For it shows me a way to make a shower bath at my little beach. I will get me a watering can, tie it in a tree and pull a string to tip it up so water will shower out of the spout. Then I'll have a shower bath."

So Uncle Wiggily did just this, and when the can of water was tied up in a tree overhead and anyone stood beneath it and pulled the string there was as fine a shower as heart could wish.

All the animal boys and girls took turns showering themselves, and once the old Bob Cat slithered out of the woods to get Uncle Wiggily. But when the bad chap was beneath the watering can Johnnie Tushytail, the squirrel, pulled the string, and oh, boy! What a shower that Bob Cat got.

"Scowrie, owrie!" he howled as he ran home with his silly little tail.

So we see that the shower bath was very useful, and if the orange doesn't try to go swimming in the lemonade when it should sit up on top of the strawberry shortcake and look pretty, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the yellow bird.

The ladies' championships in the Esquimalt tennis tournament have been decided but the men are still on their way. Miss Thomas is the ladies' champion and also holds the ladies' doubles with Mrs. Thomas.

Good Competition in Sight in Handicap Tourney at Willows
Plenty of good tennis is promised in the annual handicap competition which opened at the Victoria Lawn Tennis Club on Saturday. The opening day's play gave indications that some of the players who are seldom heard from except in the early rounds of most competitions, will be right up at the finish of this series thanks to their handicap.

LOCKJAW
The symptoms of tetanus are varied. The disease usually develops in from six to sixteen days. When lockjaw develops within six days in a man the disease is almost invariably fatal. The milder cases of tetanus usually require a longer period for development and such patients may recover.

There are a number of cases of slow development on record where recovery has taken place even without the use of antitoxin now so generally administered in tetanus infection.

STIFFNESS
One of the most noticeable symptoms of tetanus is marked stiffness of the neck and the lower jaw. This is why the disease is called lockjaw.

When a person has received a lacerated wound which has been much soiled by dirt or dust; or a puncture wound from a nail or garden instrument or household utensil, he should be taken to a doctor to determine whether he should receive an injection of antitetanic serum.

These injections should be repeated at intervals of a week until three doses have been given.

Wounds, however insignificant, may be contaminated and should always be thoroughly cleaned. Puncture wounds or lacerated wounds should be opened and care should be taken to remove every piece of foreign matter.

If gun wadding or other foreign material has been driven into the wound don't attempt to clean the wound yourself, take the patient at once to a doctor. Prompt cleaning of a wound is almost as important as thorough cleaning; so don't delay.

You should also know that tetanus antitoxin is a reliable and trustworthy preventive. If any doubts existed on this score prior to 1920, the experience of the armies during the war has demonstrated the effectiveness of this treatment.

Antitoxin should be administered before the symptoms of lockjaw occur. The reason for this is that after tetanus toxin has combined with the motor nerve cells in the central nervous system it cannot be displaced with antitoxin.

Antitoxin should, however, be administered if the patient has shown symptoms of the disease, to prevent further danger. The most important fact for you to remember is that tetanus antitoxin should be administered just as soon as possible.

MacDonald Smith is New Canadian Champ
Montreal, Aug. 9--MacDonald Smith, Lakeview, New York, is the new Canadian open golf champion. After the three-day tournament here his aggregate for four rounds was 283. Gene Sarazen, his unsuccessful opponent in the recent Metropolitan championship, was second with 286. Joe Turnesa, runner-up to Bobby Jones in the United States open at Columbus, was third with 287. Johnny Farrell, Quaker Ridge, New York, who led on the first day and entered the last round tied for the leadership with Gene Sarazen, fell away badly and got an aggregate of 291. Leo Diegel, who was Canadian champion last year, was fourth with 290. Soon after the last round started Saturday afternoon a tropical thunderstorm broke over the neighborhood, accompanied by a deluge of rain. This affected all of the leaders. The greens after a while were covered with pools of water, making delicate putting impossible.

Ross Somerville, London, Ont., Canadian amateur champion, was the leading amateur with an aggregate of 302.

MacDonald Smith is New Canadian Champ
Montreal, Aug. 9--MacDonald Smith, Lakeview, New York, is the new Canadian open golf champion. After the three-day tournament here his aggregate for four rounds was 283. Gene Sarazen, his unsuccessful opponent in the recent Metropolitan championship, was second with 286. Joe Turnesa, runner-up to Bobby Jones in the United States open at Columbus, was third with 287. Johnny Farrell, Quaker Ridge, New York, who led on the first day and entered the last round tied for the leadership with Gene Sarazen, fell away badly and got an aggregate of 291. Leo Diegel, who was Canadian champion last year, was fourth with 290. Soon after the last round started Saturday afternoon a tropical thunderstorm broke over the neighborhood, accompanied by a deluge of rain. This affected all of the leaders. The greens after a while were covered with pools of water, making delicate putting impossible.

Ross Somerville, London, Ont., Canadian amateur champion, was the leading amateur with an aggregate of 302.

RUSSIA HERE THIS MORNING FROM ORIENT

Canadian Pacific Liner Arrived With 446 Passengers and $6,000,000 Silk Cargo Delayed by fogs hanging over the Strait of Juan de Fuca the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Russia, Capt. A. J. Hosken, was three hours late in docking this morning from the Far East. The big liner tied up at Pier 2 at 10:30 o'clock. The skipper reported a good voyage with only two days of bad weather. The Russia completed the 4,200 mile journey in nine days, 11 hours and 14 minutes.

The passenger list on board the inbound liner on arrival here totaled 446 including seventy-two first class, ninety-eight second class, seventeen third class and 257 steerage travelers. A number of the cabin passengers disembarked here while over fifty Orientals were taken off the vessel at this port.

Among the passengers on board was the student party of forty-six under the leadership of A. C. Elworthy, who have just completed a tour of the Orient under the Arts and Crafts Guild of Chicago. The party have made a round trip on the Russia, departing from Victoria late in June.

In cargo the Russia had close to 2,000 tons including a shipment of raw silk amounting to 1,500 bales and valued at $6,000,000. It will go forward from Vancouver on a special train to Eastern United States mills. Other freight included fifty tons of discharge here, 1,400 tons for overland shipment, eighteen tons for Puget Sound ports, seventy-five tons of Chinese food stuffs and 180 tons for transit via the Panama Canal.

At Kobe the Empress of Russia loaded 1,000 tons of general cargo including 1,200 bales of raw silk, which is the largest silk shipment taken from that port by any trans-Pacific freight conference steamer this year. The next largest shipment from Kobe in 1926 was a consignment of 1,122 bales lifted by the N.Y.K. steamship Shidzuka Maru.

Eight hundred and ninety-four bales of mail were put off here including thirty-seven for local distribution, 344 for various points in the United States and thirteen for Eddie Hubbard. Among the prominent passengers on board the Russia were: Shanghai barrister, en route to the Pacific Coast on a holiday; H. P. Martin, representative, Lever Bros., soap manufacturer, on his way to England; R. A. Young, superintendent, operating department, Canadian Pacific Steamships Limited, at Shanghai, en route to England on furlough; G. R. Burkhin, prominent Shanghai merchant and a member of the firm of A. R. Burkhin & Sons, accompanied by his wife; B. H. Stearns, member of the passenger-traffic department staff of the Canadian Pacific, at Shanghai, returning to Canada on furlough; J. Ambrose, prominent Shanghai resident, director and chairman of important commercial interests in China, on his way to Alaska to spend a vacation; P. A. Wright of Halifax, a representative of Patons & Baldwin, wool spinners of Boston; P. B. Marshall, prominent Shanghai resident and race horse owner; R. B.

EMPEROR CARRIES ORIENT PARTY OF TOURIST STUDENTS

Nearly Fifty Saw Orient Ports While Traveling on Canadian Pacific Ship

The Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Russia carried a party of students to the Orient on the round trip which the vessel completed this morning. There were forty-five in the party traveling under the management of the Arts and Crafts Guild Travel Bureau of Chicago, which left on June 24 and who returned to-day well satisfied with their journey and the experiences which the Far East holds out to travelers.

A. C. Elworthy, who headed the party, said that the tour was a success in every way, and praised highly the Canadian Pacific service which had facilitated the party in their ramblings in many ways.

"This sort of thing appeals to students and teachers especially," says Mr. Elworthy, "and is designed to give them the education that every man and woman craves, which is to know the world and its people." He said that the tour was a success in every way, and praised highly the Canadian Pacific service which had facilitated the party in their ramblings in many ways.

Every member of the party was in high spirits on the arrival of the ship this morning, and glad once again to glimpse the mountains of their native land.

"After all," said Mr. Elworthy, "home looks pretty good to most of these college men and women, even though the Orient has a thousand things of new and amazing interest to all of us."

Among the prominent passengers on board the Russia were: Shanghai barrister, en route to the Pacific Coast on a holiday; H. P. Martin, representative, Lever Bros., soap manufacturer, on his way to England; R. A. Young, superintendent, operating department, Canadian Pacific Steamships Limited, at Shanghai, en route to England on furlough; G. R. ARIZONA MARU DOCKED TO-DAY

O.S.K. Steamship Held up by Fog; Discharged 100 Tons of Cargo Here

Held up by heavy fog the Osaka Shosen Kaisha liner Arizona Maru, Capt. Fuchinami, did not dock at Pier 1 until 7 o'clock this morning from the Orient. The vessel was supposed to reach here last night at 5:30 o'clock.

One hundred tons of Oriental merchandise were discharged here by the Japanese steamship before she proceeded to Seattle. The Arizona had included in her cargo a shipment of 3,000 bales of raw silk, which will be discharged at Seattle and rushed East by a special Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul train to the mills of New York.

Other freight aboard the vessel included peanut oil in bulk, 558 tons of porcelain and 320 tons of general for discharge at Seattle, 1,797 tons of porcelain, 192 tons of tea from Shimoda and 222 tons of general to be unloaded at Tacoma.

A fine list of passengers was brought in by the Japanese steamer, including the cabin and thirty-nine steerage for this port, while Seattle's list was composed of thirty-four cabin and seventeen steerage passengers.

Ninety-four sacks of mail were discharged here including eleven bags for Eddie Hubbard, the air mail pilot.

The Arizona cleared about 9 o'clock for Seattle.

WILL INVESTIGATE WRECK OF NORLINA

U.S. Steamboat Inspectors Start Investigation at San Francisco

San Francisco, Aug. 9.—Federal steamboat inspectors on Saturday entered into the preliminary stages of an investigation which they said they would make into the wrecking of the freighter Norlina, which went hard ashore Thursday morning, during a dense fog off the Sonoma coast, approximately 100 miles north of here.

The inspectors said they were prepared to question Captain John Soderlund, commanding officer of the Norlina, second mate Fred Atwood, and the thirty-five members of the crew and that they had noted a discrepancy in the reports submitted by Captain Soderlund and second mate Atwood.

Atwood was at the wheel when the ship went aground. Captain Soderlund blamed his subordinate officer for the wreck and said Atwood was negligent.

Atwood met this with the assertion he had been instructed to summon Captain Soderlund to the bridge when a certain beacon near the scene of the wreck was sighted and that the captain had failed to answer several calls to report on the bridge.

It was intimated by the federal inspectors that if Captain Soderlund and Atwood were found to have been delinquent in their duties a charge of negligence would be brought against them. This automatically would result in the suspension of their licenses for any period set by the inspectors.

FIVE LOSE LIVES WHEN SHIP SINKS

Ss. Ringhorn Goes Ashore; H.M.C.S. Patriot Saves Men

Halifax, N.S., Aug. 9.—Five men of the crew of the steamer Ringhorn were drowned and one injured when the vessel went ashore and broke up at Tin Cove, Scotia Island, according to the message received here yesterday by C. H. Harvey, local agent for the marine and fisheries department from the department's sub-agent at Sydney, N.S., whose report said twelve of the crew had been saved.

Mr. Harvey said that early in the day he had received a radio message from North Sydney advising him that the Ringhorn was ashore at Point Nova, eastern Cape Breton and in need of immediate assistance. The Canadian Government warship Patriot was proceeding to the stricken vessel. Later Mr. Harvey said he was informed that an "unknown" steamer had grounded at Tin Cove, where the crew was in great danger owing to a heavy gale. This "unknown" steamer was undoubtedly the Ringhorn as proved by the more recent vessel.

It is presumed that the Patriot reached the vessel in time to save the twelve men.

Mr. Harvey stated that the Ringhorn was from Port Harcourt for a United Kingdom port and that she probably was bound for Louisbourg, for bunker coal when she struck.
